Final BULLETINS

Wendell Willkie Returns to U.S.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Wendell Willkie, on the homeward leg of an aerial tour of the world's battlefronts, arrived here this afternoon.

He landed at Wold-Chamberlain field, naval base, in a four-motored army plane, which flew him here from Edmonton, 1,100 miles to the northwest. He had reached the Alberta city from Fairbanks, Alaska, where he arrived from the Orient Friday.

Doctor Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal by Dr. Everly Eldon Rogers from a decision of the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons Council to strike his name from its register for alleged unprofessional conduct, opened in B.C. Supreme Court today before Mr. Justice Coady.

Fishboat Overdue

SEATTLE (AP)—The 76-foot Seattle halibut fishing boat Helge, with a crew of 11 men, commanded by Louis Holmes of Juanita, is overdue on a fishing trip in the North Pacific, the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association said today.

The vessel was last heard from Sept. 13 fishing on the deep-sea banks off Kodiak Island.

Seize 3 More

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Late this afternoon U.S. District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn announced here that three more subsidiaries of Triumph Explosives Inc. had been seized in addition to two taken earlier and two other inspectors arrested by special agents of the F.B.I.

The three are the Elk Loding Mills Corporation, Elkton; the Kent Defence Co., Chestertown, Md.; and the Maryland Display and Fireworks Co., Elkton.

Threatens Laval

MOSCOW (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Geneva quoted "diplomatic sources" as reporting today that during Pierre Laval's recent trip to Paris he was handed a Hitler ultimatum demanding that he completely suppress the anti-German movement in France by the end of 1942 or yield all France, including new unoccupied territory, to control of a German commissioner.

Riff Goes Vichy

VICHY (AP)—The Vichy government said today that the exiled Riff warrior chieftain, Abd el Krim, has proclaimed himself a Vichy "loyalist."

(Abd el Krim has been in banishment on the Indian Ocean island of Reunion, near Madagascar, a prisoner of the French. The new move may be an attempt to trade a vote of allegiance for his freedom.)

Heads War Committee

TORONTO (CP)—Tim Buck, Canadian Communist Party leader, was elected national secretary of the Communist-Labor Total War Committee at a meeting of that body, it was announced today.

William Kardash, M.L.A. of Winnipeg, was re-elected national president.

The committee promotes national war production.

More Norwegians Slain

LONDON (CP)—The Germans have removed virtually the entire male population from the parish of Grane, in Nordland, northern Norway, executing or arresting at least 75. Reuters said today in a Stockholm dispatch which quoted the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet.

Aussies Skirmish

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia (CP)—Allied mountain troops in New Guinea were reported skirmishing today with the Japanese in the region of "The Gap" through the Owen Stanley Mountains not far from the mile-high Templeton's Crossing.

Publish War Orders

OTTAWA (CP)—The Privy Council office today announced establishment of a new weekly publication, "Canadian War Orders and Regulations," which will contain the record of orders passed because of wartime conditions.

Weakened Nazis Renew Stalingrad Drive

2 U.S. Tankers Jap Sub Victims Off West Coast

A U.S. PACIFIC COAST PORT (CP)—Enemy submarines operating off the Pacific coast have sunk two American tankers with a total death toll of seven seamen.

Six perished in the sinking of a tanker announced by the United States navy last Saturday, 38 survivors being picked up by a lumber schooner which sailed into the danger zone and braved the enemy raider by sweeping the water with its searchlights. (See story, "Men Trapped," Page 16.)

One died in the loss of the second tanker, 48 survivors of which landed here Oct. 6. In the first sinking four of the victims were trapped in their compartment by fire which swept the vessel and the others while at their stations in the blaze. The solitary victim in the second sinking, lost his life when he leaped overboard and disappeared.

Thinks Little Of Japs' Aim

One crew member of the second tanker, Boatswain Nathan A. Astashkin of Sitka, Alaska, has a low opinion of Japanese marksmanship. He said:

"Those little, yellow, Japanese sons of somebodies are bum shooters."

Bo'sn Astashkin and 47 other survivors of the medium-sized coastal tanker were brought here by a foreign vessel, flying a neutral flag. It picked them up two hours after their craft was torpedoed and set afire off the Oregon coast the morning of Oct. 4.

"It was my third torpedoing," Astashkin said. "Both the others were in the north Atlantic, aboard ships of Panamanian registry."

"This time? Well, this time, we're lying dead still in the dawn, 20 miles off the coast for an hour and seven minutes, because of an engine room breakdown, and it takes the submerged Jap three torpedoes to hit us once."

"And then they hit us so far forward that the fire falls to cut off anyone from getting to the lifeboats, and in spite of a rather 'green' crew, and a lot of shouting and running around, we only lose one man, and we come away with only two hurt."

Not Long in Sea Till Rescued

"And we're only floating around... what is it, two-three hours?" he asks a member of the tanker's naval gun crew.

3 DAYS, THEN 3 DAYS

Among the survivors here today was Seaman Fred Martin, 20, Los Angeles, who grinned wryly that he had been "three days at sea and three days seasick—and torpedoed on the fourth."

Few of the crew got away fully clad, and all were mighty glad when the neutral vessel, answering their wireless SOS, hove into view and picked them up.

Dieppe Wounded Back in Canada; Tell of Fight

Canadian Press

Youthful Canadian soldiers who tested the Germans on the smoke-clouded, bloody beaches of Dieppe are now back in the Dominion, glad to be home but visibly sorry their wounds prevented them from helping to finish the job.

With these near-dozen survivors of the charge up the slopes of the Channel shores were several hundred companions in arms, invalided home because of poor health or because of wounds suffered in manoeuvres.

But those men refused to talk. "Never mind me, go and talk to the Dieppe boys; they have a real story," was their answer to questions.

And a real story "the Dieppe boys" did have. One was chunky John MacGillcuddy of Watford, Ont. From his bunk in the hospital train he told of how he was wounded seven times in the brief but fierce engagement. Holding up his arm, wrapped in a gay bandanna he had substituted for the regulation sling, MacGillcuddy enumerated his wounds.

"First," he said, "I had my elbow shot away by a sniper. Then I was hit in the leg. After that my back and shoulders were sprayed with shrapnel. That makes seven, count 'em—seven holes."

U.S. Officials Seize Explosives Plant; Charge Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy took possession today of the plant of Triumph Explosives Inc. at Elkton, Md., and two subsidiaries at Milford, Del., and the White House announced that the F.B.I. had arrested a plant vice-president and an army and navy inspector on bribery charges.

A White House statement said the inspectors were charged with accepting bribes in the guise of "service fees" and that the navy's preliminary investigation indicates that more than $1,000,000 in management "irregularities" may be involved.

The navy took over the plants under terms of a presidential executive order.

Those arrested, the White House said, were Josef Ben Decker, executive vice-president of Triumph; J. A. McCambridge, until recently civilian army inspector at the Triumph plant, and Reginald Gregory, chief civilian navy inspector at Triumph.

The two subsidiaries taken under governmental control are the Milford Ordnance Company and the Sussex Ordnance Company.

Ship Strike in Britain

LONDON (CP)—Between 230 and 300 shipyard workers went on strike today at Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, protesting that a transfer from piece work to an hourly wage scale had cut their earnings.

Canada Plans Atlantic Air Mail For Men Overseas

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada must consider the establishment of a trans-Atlantic air mail service, probably in co-operation with the United Kingdom, to give mail service to those in the armed forces overseas, said Postmaster-General Mulock, back today from a flying visit to the United Kingdom.

Airplanes now crossing the Atlantic were heavily laden and space on American machines were being more and more occupied with mail for United States soldiers overseas.

Col. Mulock said the extent of the air mail traffic was indicated by the fact that 62,000 airgraph letters had been received in one day from the United Kingdom.

Blue air mail letters for those in the forces were running at the rate of 15,000 a day from Canada. The blue air mail letters were more popular with those in the services than airgraphs, since it was felt they gave privacy not possible in airgraphs which are photographed and transported as photographic film.

Liquor Advertising May Be Banned

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA—Recommendation of a ban on all liquor and beer advertising has been before the cabinet committee dealing with the liquor situation.

Though liquor advertising is banned in some provinces, it is allowed in others, with liquor advertising thus flowing from the first into the second. Now the proposal is to make it federal, with the idea of thus reducing the stimulus to drinking.

War-time Prices and Trade Board has already prohibited making of metal ash trays and similar advertising souvenirs bearing names of brewers and distillers.

Liquor advertising ban was one of the liquor control measures asked by the United Church delegation before the cabinet recently.

Soldier Arrested After Body Found

VANCOUVER (CP)—City police said a 27-year-old soldier will "likely be charged today" with the murder of Phil Davis, Vancouver cab driver, following an autopsy on the body to recover a bullet which entered the back of the head.

Police said the suspect had made a statement but they refused to divulge its contents. He has been absent without leave since leaving a local army barracks Sept. 17.

New Envoy to Russia

SYDNEY (CP-Reuters)—Appointment of William Slater, who is known as a moderate labor man, as Australian minister to Russia was announced today.

Survivors of West Coast Jap Torpedoing

Britain Proposes End of Shackling

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that Germany had been requested to rescind her action in shackling British and Canadian prisoners, and that if the Nazis agreed, Britain immediately would cancel her reprisal measures.

Mr. Churchill said the Germans violated the Geneva Convention when they chained 1,376 prisoners taken at the Canadian-led raid on Dieppe Aug. 19, and that representations had been made to Berlin through Switzerland, urging the Nazis to desist.

It was the Prime Minister's first report on the negotiations since Germany announced last Friday that the Britons and Canadians had been tied up for alleged binding of the hands of Nazis seized in raids on Dieppe and Sark Island. Britain and Canada retaliated by fettering a similar number of Nazi prisoners Saturday.

No General Order Given By British

Mr. Churchill said: "His Majesty's government have never countenanced any general order for the tying up of prisoners on the field of battle. Such a process may, however, be necessary from time to time under the stress of circumstances and may, indeed, be in the best interest of the safety of the prisoners themselves."

The Geneva convention upon the treatment of prisoners of war does not attempt to regulate conditions in the actual fighting. It is confined solely to the treatment of prisoners who have been securely captured and are under the responsible charge of the hostile government.

"Both His Majesty's government and the German government are bound by this convention. The German government, by throwing into chains 1,376 British prisoners of war, for whose proper treatment they were responsible, have violated regulation two of aforesaid convention."

"They are thus attempting to use prisoners of war as if they are hostages upon whom reprisals can be taken for occurrences on the field of battle with which said prisoners can have had nothing to do."

Spirit of Convention Shattered By Nazis

"This action of the German government affronts the sanctity of the Geneva convention, which His Majesty's government have always been anxious to observe punctiliously. His Majesty's government have therefore approached the protecting power and invited that power to lay before the German government our solemn protest against this breach of the Geneva convention and urge them to desist from it, in which case the counter-

Victorian Leaves Internment Camp

Bob Kerr of Victoria is among five British Columbians who are expected to reach Vancouver tomorrow after being released from an internment camp in eastern Canada where they had been held as members of the Communist Party of Canada.

The other men are Tom Ewen, Bill Rigby, Fergus McKean and Harry Assen of Vancouver.

Kerr left this coast during the Spanish war and became a political commissar for the Republican army in Spain. From there he wrote articles for the Canadian labor press under his own name. He was active in labor unions in British Columbia but was working as a mechanic in Victoria during 1940 when he was sent to an internment camp. He is a wounded veteran of the Great War.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

LONDON—Both in the United States and in Britain, especially in military circles, one constantly hears the plaint that the Anglo-American allies are hampered in their relations with Russia by secrecy regarding details of Soviet operations and resources.

It is pointed out that official observers are not permitted the run of the Russian fronts. Rather typical was the rhetorical question flung at me recently by an officer—let's call him Anglo-American—who demanded:

"How the devil can we know about the urgency of opening a second front if we have small idea of what the Red resources are to meet the present emergency?"

UNDERLYING IDEA

It struck me then and the thought has been growing that the more important point to be determined is what underlies this Russian tendency to secrecy, for it undoubtedly exists. Moscow must have some reason. If that can be fathomed it will perhaps be easier to chart a course which will draw the triple alliance into that closer understanding which is necessary not only to win the war but to win the peace.

Accordingly, I have been delving into this problem of Russian reluctance to do a lot of talking.

I wish it were possible to give direct quotations. But you know how it is these days when the shadow of anonymity stands behind public figures, ready to poke them in the back if they dare mention their names. So we'll just get ahead with the job on our own.

We start from the premise that the Russians do keep their affairs to themselves, broadly speaking. There are several reasons for this:

1. The Russians by nature are secretive or, perhaps, a happier way to put it is that it is characteristic of them to keep their own counsel. Communism itself is a deep, silent stream.

HITLER IN DARK

But Hitler didn't realize this. The British government in this case kept its desperate straits a close secret, so much so that a distinguished British air officer told me last night he himself hadn't realized the situation.

All Der Fuehrer knew was that he seemed to be crashing his warplanes against a stone wall. And he quit his bombardment just when he might have won had he continued a few days more.

That was exceptional secrecy for Britain and it would be for America. It is customary procedure in Russia.

Italian Troops, Tanks Appear; Men Feel Cold

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW (AP)—Weakened but still attacking, the Germans struggled to get a fresh offensive going against Stalingrad today while Red army troops were reported cutting into several sectors of the Mozdok area by vigorous counterattacks.

Renewal of the assault on Stalingrad, after a three-day lull devoted to artillery duels, found both German and Russian soldiers muffled in greatcoats against the autumnal chill.

Italian troops and tanks appeared in the fight.

The Russians said their arc of fire held off the invaders after a minor penetration of a single street Monday. Red army rifle-men and artillery batteries held the Germans northwest of the city and in the suburb, dispatches said. Russian motorized infantry was reported checking all enemy attacks against the left flank south of the burning and smoke-hazed city.

Far Fewer Troops In Current Action

Troops units involved in the assaults ran to single regiments, however, compared with as many as five divisions previously hurled against the defenses.

New Messerschmitt 109's, an improved German pursuit type, remained in action over Stalingrad, but the army newspaper Red Star said the Russian air force had found the answer to them by fighting in layer formations and shot down several.

Amid scenes of desolation, Stalingrad's soldiers dug in with heavy overcoats as protection against the seasonal chill. Photographs of long lines of German prisoners showed they were already wearing their winter uniforms.

The cold of the coming second winter of the war spread gradually down the front from the Arctic.

An Izvestia dispatch from the central front said the fear of frost became evident in diaries found on German prisoners and the dead.

The noon communique said more than 250 Germans were killed in a vain attempt by a rifle unit to crash through defence lines to a factory in the northwest area of Stalingrad.

Perhaps this was the Stalin tractor plant, Stalingrad's largest industrial works. Pravda said the Russians still held it.

Hitler Again Avoids Word of Stalingrad

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts, AP)—The German high command said today that "local attempts of attack made by the enemy were nipped in the bud by German and Hungarian troops, respectively, in the area of Stalingrad and on the Don front."

(Thus for the third consecutive day Hitler's headquarters made no specific mention of the course of fighting within the city of Stalingrad.)

(Even the broad reference today to "the Stalingrad area" contained no claim of German gains, or even of German offensive, since it reported only that Russian thrusts were frustrated.)

"German and Rumanian bomber formations dropped bombs of all calibres on enemy supply bases and transport movements on both sides of the Volga," the war bulletin said. "Conflagrations started in the Caucasian oil centre of Grozny were enlarged through nocturnal air raids."

The high command said that in the "central and northern" sectors of the long battleline weather conditions were worsening and activity was limited to artillery and reconnaissance operations.

Reporter Bob Davis, Island Lover, Dies

Robert H. (Bob) Davis, 73, noted author, editor, dramatist and dean of reporters, whose colorful career took him on assignments throughout the world, died in Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, Sunday.

He had suffered a heart attack in Victoria about two weeks ago. He was confined for five days to his bed in his Empress Hotel room and then left with Mrs. Davis for eastern Canada for further treatment.

Bob Davis was almost as well known in Victoria and on Vancouver Island as he was in New York. He came here frequently and often spoke of his love of the island's fishing, beaches, scenery, farms, forests and people. He wrote many columns on the beauties of these parts for the New York Sun.

TOURED ISLAND

On his final visit last month, Mr. Davis toured up-island with Geo. I. Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner. He sent dispatches to his paper until the day he was taken sick.

Mr. Davis had many friends here and liked to walk about the streets and meet Victorians on the corners and walk across the Causeway with them. If he ever retired, he often said, he was coming to the island to make his home.

During a span of 65 years in literary life, Mr. Davis was a columnist, publisher, war correspondent and editorial executive of the New York Sun. But it was perhaps for his column "Bob Davis reveals"—that he was best known to millions who read it in numerous newspapers.

He knew Canada better than most of his countrymen and better than many Canadians. In search of stories and good fishing spots he toured throughout the Dominion.

As a war correspondent Mr. Davis "covered" much of Europe in the First Great War. He reported the earlier events of the present conflict until the Nazi occupation of France. He was the last foreign newspaperman to leave that country.

BOAT THE WORLD

Bob Davis was given an assignment in 1926 that newspapermen dream about—to roam the world, not to stop until he had seen all of it and to write about it in his own way. For many years he did that, chronicling for the New York Sun the curious and odd bits of news in many lands, meeting the high and the low, enjoying life immensely in the meanwhile.

But before becoming a roving reporter he had established himself as an editor; the "discoverer" of O. Henry; friend and advisor of scores of writers; a dramatist, and a distinguished amateur photographer. More than 2,500 prominent people were snapped by his camera and the book he made of the photographs sold at $100 a copy.

HOW HE STARTED

He got his start as a writer in an odd way. As a typesetter on the San Francisco Examiner in 1894 he was printing an account of a baseball game when the "copy" was browned out of the window by the wind. He had witnessed the game so he wrote and typed his own version. The result was so amusing that the reporter who was assigned to the story got a $25 bonus, but he was so indignant at what happened to his copy that the typesetter's role was discovered. Davis was hired at once as a writer and made good.

As a reporter he catalogued the name of every person he met, jotting down names, addresses and other information in note books. In time he had 32,000 names listed. Whenever a story broke on any front, he referred to his list and usually had a good news source.

From news he turned to fiction in 1903 and edited various magazines until the Sun turned him loose to cover the world. His column was called, "Bob Davis Reveals."

Robert Hobart Davis was born, abruptly as it had started. We were still afloat, but listing badly.

Schneller said that on deck the discipline of the crew "was wonderful."

"We had to throw some of the men into the water. They refused to leave the ship even after being ordered to do so."

"We floated for what seemed like hours. Hundreds of men were bobbing around in the sea."

Schneller was picked up by a destroyer and transferred to another ship.

BOB DAVIS
... liked Victoria.

March 23, 1869 in Brownsville, Nebraska. His father was an Episcopal clergyman. Bob's parents had gone from their native New England to do missionary work among the Indians. He was educated at Carson City and moved to San Francisco, where he got his start.

LIKED TO EAT

"I should never have been a writer," he once said. "I should have been a hotel proprietor. I like to see people eat and I like to see them happy." Bob himself liked to eat. He traveled all over the south to get the lowdown on the Smithfield ham; he searched the world over for "decent pan-cake" and finally found it in New Jersey. He believed that any man who married a good cook was a genius.

He was an author of these plays: "The Family," "The Welcher," "Efficiency and Laughter" (with Percy Poore Sheehan). He wrote a number of books: "Ruby Robert," "Over My Left Shoulder," "Tree Toad," "Autobiography of a Small Boy" and a series of volumes on his travels abroad.

He interviewed Benito Mussolini in Rome, Sept. 13, 1926, for the Associated Press and was made an honorary life member of the staff of that news-gathering organization, an honor he highly prized.

He married Madge Lee Hutchinson of New York in 1899. She accompanied him on his world-wide jaunts.

FOUND O. HENRY

O. Henry's star was just beginning to rise in 1903. He was in New York but no one knew where. Davis, as a World reporter, was assigned to find him and make him three offers of a job, at $40, $50 and $60 a week, the lowest figure preferred. Davis located him in a hall bedroom in a downtown rooming house, eating pears from a bowl.

"Have some fruit," said O. Henry. Davis ate a pear and offered him a job at the highest price. "Mister, you can have the rest of the pears," exclaimed the creator of "Bagdad on the Subway," and he went to work. The World "fired" him after a while. Davis later hired him, on a five-year contract, to write for Munsey's Magazine.

Frank Packard was still a type when he wrote "The Miracle Man" at Davis's suggestion. Montague Glass would never have written "Potash and Perlmutter," were it not for Davis. Glass, discouraged by constant rejection slips, was ready to go back to his law practice when Davis guaranteed to buy his next three articles. The jinx was broken.

Asks Peace Pact

MAYNORTH, Eire (CP) — Joseph Cardinal MacRory, Primate of All Ireland, said in an address here today that he is more convinced than ever that a negotiated peace is necessary.

He asserted "cruel feelings are arising on both sides and prisoners are being put in chains."

"If the war is fought to the finish," he stated, "there may possibly be a stalemate owing to the utter exhaustion of both sides, and, if either side should win, there will be a peace not of justice but of vengeance which will sow the seeds of future wars."

Beer and Cosmetics Rated as Aids in War Morale

By NORMAN M. MACLEAD

OTTAWA—One of the incidental effects which close federal observers anticipate from the replacement of Hon. J. T. Thorson as Minister of National War Services by Maj. Gen. L. R. LaFleche is a setback to the high hopes of the dry forces for a drastic government policy of liquor rationing.

Temperance forces were achieving rapid success in securing active response from Mr. Thorson to their program. However, the action which the former Minister of War Services had indicated his willingness to take went further than other ministers in the government were prepared to travel, and if he had not been relieved of the situation by his promotion to the Exchequer Court, he would have had to wage a strenuous battle with his cabinet colleagues.

PROFESSOR MAKES REPORT

Mr. Thorson had enlisted as his advisor in the situation Professor S. D. Clark of the department of sociology of Toronto University. While Dr. Clark's report has not been made public, it is reported to favor a substantial measure of rationed sale, together with more stringent control over both the sale of the beer brewed in the country and its alcoholic strength.

This program is believed to have failed to carry the support of either the justice or the national revenue authorities, who foresaw in it the threat of the revival of an illicit liquor traffic in the Dominion which would engage more activity by law enforcement officers than is practical or desirable in wartime.

QUOTO INSTEAD OF RATION

Furthermore, there is the fact that distillation of hard liquors ceases in the Dominion by the first of the coming month, and that distilleries from that time on face the prospect of having to live on their inventories, instead of rationing being required. It is understood that the distilleries are going to quota their sales, and will only deliver a percentage of the amount which they made available a year ago to distributing agencies.

WEAKER BEER DISAPPROVED

Gen. LaFleche is expected to take a practical rather than a crusading view. Hopes of the dry forces for a reduction in the alcoholic content of beer brewed are not expected to be realized under him, while from Selective Service sources comes fairly clear indication that, in the restrictions which are being drafted at the moment for nonessential industries, a moderate attitude is to be adopted towards the brewing industry.

The view of labor authorities is said to be that the discontent, lawlessness and consequent deterioration of morale which would be caused by drastic action against the workers' beer would be far more damaging than any compensating benefits that could result.

LIKE COSMETICS

Selective Service authorities intimate that a similarly liberal view is to be taken with regard to women's cosmetics. Strictly speaking, the cosmetic industry is not essential in wartime. But the Selective Service officials are sufficiently practical to realize the definite connection which exists between a woman's morale and her consciousness of her appearance. The cosmetic industry, consequently, is to be spared on a reasonable basis in the drastic restrictions which, towards the end of the coming week, are scheduled to descend upon non-essential industry in Canada generally.

Protest Chlorination

VANCOUVER (CP)—A resolution protesting "in the strongest possible terms" a federal order for installation of a chlorinating system for the Vancouver water supply was adopted unanimously at a mass meeting of the Associated Property Owners of Vancouver. About 1,400 persons attended.

How Good Are U.S. Planes? Facts On Controversy Given

By MARJORIE VAN DE WATER

WASHINGTON—Are American pilots being sent into the air in combat areas in planes that are inferior to the Japanese Zeros or the German Focke-Wulfs?

The answer is a vital one, and it is therefore the subject of hot controversy between writers who do not know the whole truth and public officials who are not at liberty to speak it.

When the facts are, finally, freely discussed, it will probably be perfectly clear that everyone is right and, to quote Gilbert and Sullivan, "All is right as right can be."

Here are the facts: American airplane manufacturers can build the fastest planes in the blue.

They can make them climb. They can make them manoeuvrable.

They can arm them with the best guns.

They can protect the pilot with the best in bullet-proof windshields and fuselage.

They can make them relatively fire resistant by self-sealing fuel tanks.

They can make them carry a heavy load of guns, fuel and bombs.

They can make them cruise farther with a fighting load than can the planes of any enemy from Shanghai to Tokyo.

But they can't combine all these features in any one plane.

If you build a plane that can outfly any other plane in the air, you can't expect to make it land on the space of a boat's deck.

If you build a plane that is so strongly fortified that it cannot be successfully opposed by any enemy fighter plane, you cannot expect extreme speed from it.

If you build a plane that will outdistance all pursuers, you can't expect that plane to "turn on a dime" and dart in and out of a dogfight like a mosquito.

And, all too often, if you build a super-duper plane which miraculously combines an astounding number of these ideal features, you cannot produce it in large numbers in blitz time—it must be milled over carefully by hand-workers.

Which of these features do we want in our planes? That is a question that is not yet completely answered. The chances are it never will be, because warfare in the air is constantly changing. And the enemy doesn't build his tactics to allow us the advantage of our strong points—he aims constantly at our weak points.

If we have an air armada of heavy, strongly fortified planes of the "invincible" type, the enemy will try to make all air battles a hit-and-run, dodge-and-harry type. If all we could supply to our pilots at the front were light, vulnerable planes without heavy armament but able to out-maneuvre any opponent in a breath-taking display of sharp turns and loops and rolls, dogfighting in aerial warfare would immediately become as obsolete as the dodo.

The argument as to the relative importance of speed, manoeuvrability, strength of armament, pilot protection goes on and on and will continue to do so. It is complicated by the fact that the pilot, too, has limits of what he can stand in manoeuvrability without "blacking out." The facts about the physiology of pilots, like those on the engineering performance of planes, is not being told lest it aid the enemy. Enemy pilots are subject to the same human failings when exposed to high altitudes, extreme cold, fast turns and abrupt dives. They would like to know what we know.

Pilots, some of them, seem to lean to the opinion that the immediate, practical answer to the question is this: We need planes. We need fast planes. We need manoeuvrable planes. We need quick-climbing planes. We need heavily-armed planes. We need long-cruising planes. We need all sort of planes. But, above all, we need planes—in quantity and immediately.

Nazis Realizing They May Be Forced To Fight on 3 Fronts

LONDON (CP)—The possibility has dawned on the Germans of "war on two or three or four fronts—wherever on the perimeter of Europe an attack might come," a well-informed source declared today.

This "British source," who insisted on anonymity, based his belief on recent Nazi utterances picturing Germany as preparing for defensive warfare.

Until now, he said the Nazis' avowed objective has been the destruction of Russia's armies, and the indications of a new trend in German strategy is the first admission that Hitler has given up the attempt.

So far as crushing Russia, he declared, "Hitler now concedes defeat."

DOUBTFUL NAZI IDEAS

Noting a German statement that the Axis "can cope now with all military demands for any defensive or offensive necessities," he said such a boast must be based on these doubtful Nazi assumptions:

1. That Germany's present position is impregnable;
2. That the German army will not have to suffer so badly in Russia this winter as last;
3. That Hitler could spare troops from Russia for wherever else they might be needed;
4. That Allied air attacks would not hamper the transport of troops and equipment to any danger spot;
5. That additional troops would be spared for curbing sabotage, which shows no sign of abatement in the occupied countries;
6. That the Axis' satellite powers would be able to continue fighting.

Christopher Columbus and the adventurers who shared with him the discovery of the western hemisphere starting just 450 years ago, changed the face of the globe. Monday was Columbus Day.

Fifteenth Century Europe and Asia were pretty well limited. Within tight boundaries a steadily growing population was approaching the boiling point. An outlet was essential. Columbus gave a new outlet to the phenomenon of migration. Close behind the explorers came the imperialist colonizers sent out by England, France, Spain and Portugal to settle and hold vast areas of valuable land.

Then came the common people. Driven out of their homes by political and economic insecurity, political and religious oppression, social unrest and the simple urge to get up and go.

Historians and economists credit over-population with being the principal cause of emigration.

Distribution of European stock in the new hemisphere at first followed political designs. France sent its colonizers to capture Canada and the midwest for her empire.

England staked her claims on the central Atlantic seaboard and New England. Holland tried for New York. Spain took the Florida peninsula and the Gulf Coast, and Portugal moved into South America.

When the Portuguese found they couldn't make good workmen of the natives, they imported black men from Africa. This was so successful their English neighbors to the north soon had a flourishing plantation economy based on slavery and cotton. Hence, the large black populations in Brazil and the southern United States.

But all these incursions were only trickles compared with the flood that poured into the New World in the 19th century. From the 5,000 to 6,000 annual immigration up to 1820, the flow into the United States jumped to send 37 millions in the next 100 years. Thirty-two millions of these were from Europe.

The Irish potato famine started the great flood to the United States. In 1849 Germany's political troubles packed off a new batch of immigrants. So did Czarist oppression in Russia. The Civil War discouraged newcomers for a time but the flow picked up with peace and gained steadily until the depression of 1893.

Meantime, shipping companies and contractors in search of cheap labor scoured the villages of western and southern Europe. At one time 3,500 travel agents were reported in Europe spreading the gospel of the free and prosperous life in North America while another 3,500 agents canvassed new settlers for prepaid tickets to bring over their relatives.

Early in the 19th century, Britain turned emigrants to her African and Asiatic colonies. As protection for the Empire and to avoid building up the competitive new nation across the Atlantic, the British government subsidized emigration to South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Another reason was that American independence stopped the shipment of British convicts to America. In 1803 the British set up penal colonies in Australia, then New South Wales. By 1830 shipment of felons slackened off but gold discoveries soon whipped up new interest in those colonies. Diamond discoveries in South Africa revealed in 1870 did the job for that colony.

North American migration did not stop with the United States. The California gold rush led searchers after wealth to the west coast; the Yukon took them north to Alaska.

And in the last decade the dust bowl sent midwesterners packing from their parched farms by Japan to the promise of better things on the west coast.

If it hadn't been for that man Columbus—

Failure of home-made catsup to preserve its color and flavor and to keep well is often due to loss of vinegar during boiling, a factor which most recipes ignore.

To Lower Draft Age

Congress to Act On F.D.R.'s Call

WASHINGTON (CP).—Congressional leaders took President Roosevelt's call for an army of strong young men to carry the war to the Axis as their cue today for speedy action on legislation to lower the draft age in the United States from 20 to 18.

The President in a broadcast speech Monday night told the country he believed it would be necessary to lower the minimum age limit for selective service to 18.

"We have learned how inevitable that is—and how important to the speeding up of victory," he said.

Chairman Andrew May of the House of Representatives military committee said his committee would expedite hearings on the necessary legislation.

CONGRESS APPROVES

"I will co-operate in every way and I am sure Congress will go along," he said.

Senator Chan. Gurney (Rep.-S.D.), said he would press for an immediate hearing by the Senate military committee on his bill to draft 18 and 19-year-olds.

Mr. Roosevelt, who suggested that legislation might also be needed to solve the manpower problem on the home front, alluded indirectly to a second fighting front again by declaring that one of the major decisions of strategy already made "relates to the necessity of diverting enemy forces from Russia and China to other theatres of war by new offensives against Germany and Japan."

After reviewing his recent inspection tour through the United States and reporting that Allied strength is "on the up-grade" while that of the Axis is waning, the President declared the objective of today is clear and realistic.

"It is to destroy completely the military power of Germany, Italy and Japan to such good purpose that their threat against us and all the other United Nations cannot be revived a generation hence."

"... and we Americans and our Allies are going to win, and do not let anyone tell you anything different..."

The President, who said "we are getting ahead of our enemies" in the battles of transportation and production, declared that in order to keep stepping up production it will be necessary to solve "a formidable problem in the mobilization of manpower."

"It is not that we do not have enough people in this country to do the job," he said. "The problem is to have the right numbers of the right people in the right places at the right time."

"We are learning to ration materials; and we must now learn to ration manpower... to stop the wastage of labor in all non-essential activities."

Community efforts, examples of which he said he had noted on his trip, should be made where necessary to help farmers harvest their crops.

Exercable Taste

WHEN THE LONDON DAILY HERALD described Life magazine's "open letter to the people of England" a combination of "monstrous ignorance and monstrous malice" it doubtless reflected the views of the great majority of the 134,000,000 Americans who constitute the population of the United States. However, regardless of the hypothetical premises on which the epistle is based, and notwithstanding its challenge even to the credulity of the average school-boy, its authors could not have served the cause of Axis propaganda better had its publication been arranged with the perverted Herr Doktor Goebbels himself.

The burden of Life's complaint hangs on the fantastic assumption that Great Britain is fighting this war for the sole purpose of trying to preserve the British Empire. So, says the letter, "here is one concrete concession that we demand of you, as partners in battle. Quit fighting a war to hold the Empire together and join with us and Russia and your other allies to fight a war to win by whatever strategy is best for all of us. After victory has been won, then the British people can decide what to do about the Empire (for you may be sure we don't want it). But if you cling to the Empire at the expense of a United Nations victory, you will lose the war. Because you will lose us. . . . If your strategists are planning a war to hold the British Empire together, they will sooner or later find themselves strategizing all alone."

The foregoing sentiments, of course, reflect the American imperialism of editor Henry W. Luce—for some time suspect among all progressively liberal contemporary writers in the United States. We do not presume to berate Life or the author of this extraordinary "open letter." Columbia Broadcasting Corporation's able and extremely well-informed Ed Murrow used less than four minutes on the air from London on Sunday to undot every "if" and "because" every "and." Even Mr. Luce must have winced under the scathing castigation from a fellow American—who is patently much nearer to the people of Britain and members of the British government than the gentleman who assumes to exude omniscience from his palatial office in New York.

Not even Mr. Luce would accuse the London Daily Herald of the type of imperialism with which the epistle according to Life charges somebody in Britain. Its contributions to public discussion since its first issue in 1911 bears witness to the contrary. But it certainly did not overstep the bounds of journalistic propriety when it accused the American weekly of ignorance—as well as malice—feigned though it may have been to suit the specific purpose of its editor. Take but one or two retorts from many which could legitimately be thrown back in Life's editorial teeth:

Was Great Britain fighting for the preservation of the British Empire when her own and Dominion troops forewent certain conquest of the whole of Cyrenaica to go to the aid of valiant Greece in her hour of grave peril? Was Great Britain fighting for the preservation of the British Empire when British and Dominion troops threw Mussolini's gang out of Ethiopia and restored that country—for the second time in history—to its rightful owners? Was Great Britain fighting for the preservation of the British Empire when she saved Egypt, Iraq, and Iran from the despoilers? And does not Mr. Luce realize that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa are equal partners in the British Commonwealth of Nations? What have these Dominions done to deserve such a gratuitous insult from the editor of Life?

Surely a magazine of its importance and circulation is not hard up for constructive comment on the relations between the United States and the nation which stood alone against the might of Germany and Italy while Mr. Luce and his compatriots argued over intervention versus isolationism. Happily, however, Life's editor's verbal monkey-wrench will not be big enough to disturb the smooth-running machinery which inexorably is driving the United Nations toward victory—even though the rasping note of the "open letter" may bring a modicum of temporary comfort to the enemy.

Making Good In War

WAR HAS MULTIPLIED THE LOAD ON the Canadian railways. They serve not only civilian and war industries, but are the arteries that supply army camps and vital air training depots. They are called upon to move at short notice battalions and even divisions from one part of the country to another. Our whole strategy of domestic defence as well as building our overseas forces is based on the transportation which it is their business to provide.

How the railways are meeting these war-time demands was discussed by President R. C. Vaughan of the Canadian National in his address to the Empire Club in Toronto. The railways have had not only to take care of ordinary replacements, but have had to build new equipment and rehabilitate old to meet wartime conditions. They have had to provide special hospital cars, commissary kitchen cars for troop trains, new types of coaches with increased seating capacity for industrial trains, special type trains for transportation of enemy prisoners of war. In the face of added war traffic they have been called upon to handle civilian traffic which has increased to peak proportions. At the same time they have been losing trained personnel due to enlistments and have supplied skilled men from technical departments to war industries and government services.

That the railways have been adequate so far to meet the wartime demands is due to the efficient organizations they built up and the technical improvements they worked out in the years just before the war. Mr. Vaughan instanced some of the latter. Passenger motive power on transcontinental runs is now operated up to 1,000 miles without change, thus conserving locomotives. Freight train loads have been doubled since the last war, with speeds increased by 60 per cent. Coal consumption per ton of freight hauled has been reduced. Yards and operating systems have been modernized.

Canada, as Mr. Vaughan said, is fortunate to have her splendid railway systems so adequately equipped and strategically situated to meet the wartime demands of the nation. The railways of the Dominion have a huge wartime job to do—and they are doing it with an efficiency that is a matter of pride to Canadians.

Prime Minister and President

BOTH MR. CHURCHILL AND MR. ROOSEVELT appeared to be in fine fettle yesterday as they discussed those aspects of the war which have to do with the coming offensive. Neither could give the slightest inkling as to how, when or where new fronts would be opened. But the Prime Minister's speech at Edinburgh and the President's "fireside chat" in Washington obviously were intended as a plain warning to the Axis that the growing strength of the United Nations would soon add to the misgivings so patently revealed in the latest utterances of the Fuehrer himself and his brothers-in-crime, Hermann Goering and Joachim von Ribbentrop. If either of this bloodthirsty triumvirate discovered anything in the words of the political leaders of the two great English-speaking democracies that brought them solace, they belong to a species of wishful thinkers hitherto unknown.

The commonsense of the common people was the best answer to foolish propaganda, said Mr. Roosevelt as he humorously referred to Nazi suggestions that the invasion of continental Europe by the United Nations was an impossibility, while the fact that Hitler and Company are frantically disposing forces and impediments against the exigencies of "the day" obviously revealed their innermost fears. And the President's categorical statement that all the military leaders of all the Allies were in constant consultation and in complete agreement on the main essentials was a fitting answer to the fulminations of the dogmatists—the "type writer strategists." His equally emphatic warning that it is the bounden duty of all free men to destroy completely the military might of Germany, Italy and Japan, and to see that the war "stays won," should quieten that small but noisy element which continues to try to make mischief among friends.

No Escape This Time

ALL THE PEOPLES OF ALL THE United Nations have noted with satisfaction that both Great Britain and the United States are carefully compiling evidence against the arch-criminals of the Axis in order that after the clash of arms has ceased fitting punishment can be meted out to the ringleaders.

Article 227 of Part VII of the Treaty of Versailles publicly arraigned William II of Hohenzollern for a "supreme offence against international morality and the sanctity of treaties," and provided for a special tribunal to try him, thus assuring him the guarantees essential to the right of defence. And "in its decision the tribunal will be guided by the highest motives of international policy, with a view to vindicating the solemn obligations of international undertakings and the validity of international morality." The government of the Netherlands was to be asked to surrender the fugitive for trial. But the refusal of the authorities at The Hague to turn William over to the Allied and Associated Powers rendered that part of the Treaty of Versailles useless.

Hitler and his gang, however, will find no haven of refuge to which to fly when the march on Berlin begins. If they escape the fury of their own people at that stage of the war it will be a miracle. But if they are finally brought to book, and manacled as they have manacled Canadian and British prisoners, a court composed mainly of Russians, Hollanders, Poles, Norwegians, Yugoslavs, Czechoslovaks and Greeks ought to be able to do a fairly good job.

Notes

At Bombay a native dies at the great age of 135. He is survived by the Indian question, with which he grew up.

Joseph E. Davies called his book "Mission to Moscow." What will Wendell Willkie call his jaunt—if he writes a book?

In September, 33 ships, totaling 1,009,000 tons, were delivered by United States shipyards, according to Admiral Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission. This is at the rate of three ships a day, and approaches the total production for all of last year. In August 68 ships were built, in July 71. It looks as if the 8,000,000 tons of new shipping President Roosevelt asked for this year will be forthcoming.

Bruce Hutchison

DULL MAN

MR. COLIN CLARK, lecturer in statistics at Cambridge University and financial adviser to the Australian Treasury, is an able but, one fears, an unimaginative man. He has written a book which simply brushes aside all the glamorous ideas of the world revolution and the brave new world that most of us have been secretly nourishing in our breasts. He has studied his history, his economics, his graphs and curves and he projects them into the future and finds that it will not be much different from the past.

This, a while ago, would have been a commonplace idea. Up to 1939, say, most of us imagined that the world would continue to go along much as usual and forever, and we made our plans accordingly. But since then we have swung to the opposite extreme and are so sold on the world revolution, so convinced of fundamental and spectacular change that when anyone suggests that we may continue much as we are now, we are appalled. This idea is too radical for us to accept.

We insist on revolution. We cannot believe that after the war we shall ever be the same again. We expect on the morning of peace to wake up with economic wings sprouting from our shoulders or, if we are pessimists, with cloven hoofs and a forked tail. We cannot imagine that we shall be the same fellows.

But Mr. Clark thinks that we are all believing in fairy tales and bedtime stories these days. With all the assurance of the man of figures he says: "Political and social upheavals, however violent, have surprisingly little effect on the long-term trend of economic events." Mr. Clark watches this long-term trend over the ages, sees the gradual rise in our living standards in the last century and believes they will continue to rise, but slowly, despite all the sputtering of the reformers and the reactionaries alike. Human society, he thinks, will march on steadily in its own set direction and the barking of terriers at its heels will not divert it.

HERE IN CANADA

Mr. Clark will be denounced at once by the reformer as an ironclad Tory who is trying to prevent the birth of the new world. About that I would not know. But, applying his theories to our own country, I can see something to be said for them. At least in relation to our standard of living. Let us ponder this briefly.

The war has demonstrated, as I have often pointed out here, that we can mobilize our whole economic system, employ all our people and largely increase our total output of wealth. Our national income, our production of goods, has increased by about 70 per cent since the war began. Most of the increase, of course, has gone into things we cannot use, like guns. If we could confine this rate of production after the war and produce only things we could use, then our living standard would certainly increase by roughly 70 per cent.

But we should not get too excited at this prospect. In the first place, it will be difficult to maintain the present rate of production because it is achieved with all kinds of inconveniences, by long hours of work, by the employment of women and by an ironclad regulation of everything, including the length of pyjama coats. We are not likely to submit to such regulation after the war. In the second place, we are living now largely on capital. Our plants are wearing out, our roads, streets and other facilities are not being adequately maintained. After the war much of our energy must go in making up this deferred maintenance and not into goods we can immediately consume.

IT IS NOT OPULENCE

However, let us assume that we can maintain our present rate of production. It will be an enormous improvement over our position before the war for it will mean that everyone has a job. But it will not mean universal affluence. It will not mean that everyone will have an income of $300 or $400 a month and two cars in the garage. It will still mean a very modest standard of living for the average Canadian.

You would think to hear some reformers talk that we had already mastered, in this war, a system which would make us all rich. You would think that the only thing standing between every poor man and a fortune was the King government, or the banks or the larger industrialists. Whereas, the plain, physical fact demonstrated by this war is that even when our economic system is working full blast, even when everyone has a job, even when we are taking women out of homes and kids out of school to produce, still we cannot increase our total wealth even by 100 per cent. For all our efforts we have been unable to double our income.

The reformers may believe in their dreams of opulence, forgetting that our wealth is limited by our resources, our machines, our force of working people. But I doubt that the ordinary man is misled. I doubt that he expects to be rich after the war. He asks rather that he be assured of a job and a decent living. That he can have it in this country has been demonstrated by the complete employment of the war and he will not accept any system which provides less. But clearly we are not yet within sight of limitless abundance. We are far away still, most of us, from the higher income brackets.

Russian War Spirit Explained

"We have learned to make war in the proper way and to hate and love," says Mikhail Sholokhov, author of "Quiet Flows the Don," in a startling report from the Russian front, issued by the Soviet embassy at Washington, D.C.

Explaining the savage intensity of the Russian fighting spirit, Author Sholokhov quotes a Red Army officer:

"You may think it is impossible to put love and hatred side by side, or, as they say, to harness a horse with a deer, but with us they are harnessed together and they pull together wonderfully."

"I deeply hate the Germans for all they have done to my country and to me personally. And at the same time I love my people with all my heart and do not want them to suffer under the German yoke. That is what makes me and all of us fight with such ferocity."

"It is these two feelings, embodied in action, that will lead us to victory. And if the love of our country remains in our hearts and continues to remain as long as our hearts beat, we carry hatred on the tips of our bayonets."

Author Sholokhov describes what had happened to the Red Army officer to make him feel such savage love and hatred:

"Before the war," the officer begins, "we used to get machines from Germany at the factory. I sometimes went over every detail as many as five times and looked at it from every angle. There was no doubt about it, clever hands had made the machines. I read the books of German writers and somehow grew accustomed to regard the German people with respect. It's true that I sometimes wondered how such an industrious and talented people could put up with the odious Hitler regime. But after all that was their own affair. . . . Then the war broke out in western Europe. . . ."

"We saw everything with our own eyes! Villages burned to the ground; hundreds of shot women, children and old people; the mutilated bodies of Red Army men who had been taken prisoners; violated and savagely murdered women, girls and adolescents. One in particular remained in my memory. She was about 11 years old. The Germans had caught her on her way to school, dragged her into an orchard, violated and killed her—a little girl, a child. Her blood-stained school books lay round about her. Her face was terribly slashed. Her hand gripped her open school bag. We covered the body and stood in silence. . . . Then my comrades went

Anglican Y.P.A. Conference Urges Christian Teaching

Monday night found visitors packing their bags for the return trip and local members discreetly patting themselves on the back for the successful completion of the 13th annual B.C. conference of the Anglican Young People's Association.

During the past three days, at regular sessions held in St. Mary's Parish Hall and at special services and social gatherings in other churches in the city, 105 registered delegates from A.Y.P.A. branches on the island and lower mainland, together with many more unattached members, have combined to hold what is acknowledged the most successful A.Y.P.A. conference of recent years.

Highlighted by inspiring addresses by the Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, Very Rev. Dean Spencer H. Elliott and Mr. G. A. A. Hebdon, the delegates wound up a busy three-day session Monday evening with a social rally as guests of the Victoria local council at St. John's Church.

Discussions, sessions and reporting meetings were exceptionally well attended and enthusiastically followed, while on the social side, visitors and local members alike thoroughly enjoyed themselves at the banquet and dance, held in the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening, and at the regular Sunday evening socials held for servicemen and their friends at Christ Church Cathedral and at St. John's.

ELECT OFFICERS

Island members were honored with the majority of positions on the newly-elected Provincial Council, with Ray Hadfield of this city being made president and Florence Lemon of Duncan gaining the first vice-president's office. Other officers elected were: Patron, the Bishop of Columbia; chaplain, Dean S. H. Elliott; honorary president, L. Dixon; past-president, Bob Griffin; and Gladys Harton of Vancouver; corresponding secretary, Lenora Trickett; recording secretary, Lucy Smith; treasurer, Frank Smith; and metropolitan appointee, Rev. B. Greig, Phyllis Lambert and Jim Walker.

An interesting point arose during the report on the bursary fund when it was stated that sufficient funds were on hand to again help with the tuition fees for an A.Y.P.A. member at the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver. This will be the third year for this particular student, and he will be the first A.Y.P.A. member to be assisted into the ministry by this fund.

Among resolutions passed by the members at their final meetings this afternoon was one of thanks to all who assisted in the work of the conference, and another which said that greetings from the conference be extended to members of the All-British Council, carrying on A.Y.P.A. work in the Old Country under very difficult conditions.

Other resolutions called for further teaching of sound Christian principles, for consistent advocacy of regular church attendance as a first law of conduct, and for realization by regular working members of their responsibility with regards to financial support of less fortunate members of the Christian brotherhood.

A.Y.P.A. Activities

CHRIST CHURCH

Christ Church Cathedral junior A.Y.P.A. met Friday, when two new officers were installed, vice-president Mary Paterson and executive Joan Webb. The members played games under the supervision of Richard Martin. Three new members were present.

SOUTH SAANICH A.Y.P.A.

South Saanich A.Y.P.A. met in the rectory Thursday. Final arrangements were made for the annual conference. Plans were discussed for a bridge party to be held in the near future. It was decided to hold a Halloween party Thursday, Oct. 29 at which a number of the armed forces will be entertained. Four tables of court whist ended the evening and refreshments were served.

LIEUT. IAN MACDONALD, R.C.E., and his bride, the former Peggy Angus, smile happily for the Times cameraman at the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Angus, Rockland Avenue, Saturday, after the wedding at Christ Church Cathedral.

Weddings

STRONG-SHINER

A quiet wedding took place Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Shiner, Tod Inlet, when Rev. D. M. Perley united in marriage Irene, only daughter of Mrs. J. Shiner, and the late Mr. J. Shiner, and Cadet Jack William Strong, O.T.C., Gordon Head, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Strong, Winnipeg, Man. The ceremony was performed under a floral arch and Mrs. D. M. Perley played the wedding music, and Mrs. H. Sheret sang "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stanley E. H. Shiner, and wore a light wool afternoon frock in blue-grey with accessories to match, and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of the groom. Mrs. S. Shiner was matron of honor, wearing teal blue with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations, and P.O. Jim Menzies, an old schoolmate of the groom's, was best man. Acting as ushers were Messrs. Alfred Shiner and Lennie Tolson.

A small reception was held later when the bride's mother received the guests dressed in royal blue crepe with a black hat and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses. The supper table was prettily arranged with pink begonias and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. W. Petrie, an old friend of the family.

After a honeymoon in Vancouver, for which the bride donned a black seal coat, with a black hat, Cadet and Mrs. Strong will make their home in Red Deer, Alta.

MORGAN-WOOD

The marriage of Lillian Elsie, youngest daughter of Capt. and Mrs. W. H. Wood, Chilliwack, and Sub-Lt. Marcel C. Morgan, R.C. N.V.R., only son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Morgan, Toronto, took place here Saturday evening at 8 in St. Mary's Church, with the naval chaplain, Rev. G. E. Graham, officiating. Mr. F. T. C. Wickett was at the organ, and as the register was being signed, AB. Arthur Dance, R.C.N.V.R., sang "The Lord's Prayer." Gladioli and white chrysanthemums were arranged in the chancel and also in the Oak Bay Theatre Hall, where the reception was held.

In a flowing gown of white satin, with a train and long sleeves, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her embroidered veil of illusion net cascaded from a cap of pearls, with a fold falling over her face as she entered the church. She carried a bouquet of white alysium, centred with gardenias and showered with Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. H. D. Portingale, sister of the bride, in a bouffant gown of pale peach taffeta, and Miss Irene Harris, Vancouver, in pale pink taffeta, were the attendants. Their shoulder veils were caught to their heads with clusters of matching feathers, and they carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and rosebuds. Sub-Lt. G. Love, R.C.N.V.R., supported the groom and the ushers were Lieut. D.

Coughlan, R.C.N.V.R., and WE. E. Williams, R.C.N.

At the reception, Mrs. Wood welcomed the guests in a jacket frock of Queen's blue crepe with matching coachman's hat and veil and a corsage bouquet of Tallman roses, violets and alysium. The toast was given by the padre and the bride cut the cake, which centred the candle-lit supper table embedded in folds of pale pink tulle and flanked by vases of roses.

Sub-Lt. and Mrs. Morgan will make their home at 51 Marlborough Street after a honeymoon on the mainland. The bride's going-away costume was a turquoise blue dressmaker suit with black accessories and a gray kidskin coat adorned with a boutonniere of gardenias. Miss Pauline Frost, Vancouver, and Mrs. D. Hazelton, Chilliwack, were guests at the wedding.

REX-FAWDREY

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fawdry, Cobble Hill, V.I., announce the marriage of their only daughter, Florence Agnes, to Staff-Sgt. Leland A. Rex, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rex, Atlanta, N.Y., at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Taft, Calif., on Oct. 3. Rev. Aubrey Bray officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, in her father's absence, wore an attractive gown of rose mist crepe, trimmed with sequin butterflies, with navy blue hat and accessories. She had a shoulder spray of gardenias. Her attendant was Mrs. Nat. Ray, who as matron of honor, wore a becoming navy jacket dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of roses. Cpl. Nat. Ray, a friend of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed at one of the local restaurants. Helping to receive the guests was Mrs. Fawdry in grey printed crepe, with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Telegrams of congratulation were received from the bride's father, and Mrs. Anderson, Palo Alto, Calif. The happy couple will reside at Taft, Cal.

PAYNE-HIGHAM

Harvest festival decorations formed the background at St. Mark's Church Saturday evening at 8, when Rev. O. L. Jull officiated at the marriage ceremony between Lillian Crabtree, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higham, 3458 Bethune Avenue, and Charles William John Payne, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Payne, 244 Richmond Road. Mrs. F. W. L. Moore was at the organ.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a floor-length full-skirted gown of shell pink net, fashioned with a lace bodice and a sweetheart neckline. Her floor-length veil of silk net was caught to the head with pink rosebuds and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations. The two attendants, Miss Grace E. C. Higham and Miss Sylvia Wright, wore similar floor-length frocks of pale blue net with square necks, and blue flowers formed their headresses. Both carried bouquets of carnations. Mr. George Payne acted as best man.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's par-

Canadian Girl Wins Diplomatic Status

MARY CRAIG McGEACHY

The long campaign of British women members of Parliament for recognition of their sex in the diplomatic service has been answered with the granting of local diplomatic status to Canadian-born Mary Craig McGeachy, a member of the staff of Harold Beresford Butler, British minister in Washington and director-general of information services.

Miss McGeachy, a native of Sarnia, Ont., and a graduate of the University of Toronto, is believed to be the first British woman to attain such a status. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, an Associated Press cable from London says, informed Irene Ward, Conservative House of Commons member, of Miss McGeachy's new status.

Miss McGeachy is well known in Victoria, having spoken here several times on her visits in recent years.

Her long wedding veil concealed the numerous gifts, which were presented to the bride-to-be, together with a corsage bouquet of pink and white dahlias. THE DR. CHASE CAMPAIGN FOR NATIONAL HEALTH

What is the Secret of Family Health

One family is always healthy. In the next family there seem to always be someone sick.
Why?
It used to be customary to blame this condition on heredity.
But recent investigations show that far more depends on living and eating habits.
The underlying cause of low vitality is often traceable to a lack of vitamin B<sub>1</sub> and essential minerals derived from the food consumed.
As a result whole families may be found to be subject to a low condition of health which leaves them prey to serious and annoying ailments.
More and more intelligent thinking people are learning to depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a "pick-me-up" to help them out of a low condition of vitality.
It is usually the mother in the home who is largely responsible for the family health and most mothers know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it can do to help restore richness to the blood and vigor to the nervous system.
In most families, these days, there are excesses of work, worry and anxiety which overtax the nerves and cause headaches, irritability, loss of sleep and indigestion.
But these troubles do not need to get you down if you let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you.
Ask for the new economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and get it on the dining table along with the salt and pepper shakers so everyone who needs it may get his after meal supply of vitamin B<sub>1</sub> and food minerals.

Merriman Talks

A cable story received in Victoria last week reported an Australian soldier telling how Japanese soldiers sacrifice their lives by exposing themselves to gunfire so that the position of the enemy is disclosed.

The lone Jap steps into the open. The enemy fires on him. He is sacrificed, but his brother Japs in hiding have found the position of the enemy.

Another story on fanatical sacrifice of the Japs said they could not understand why prisoners of war were so anxious to get in touch with their relatives. When a Jap goes to war he says goodbye to his family. He expects to be killed and they are all happy about it because they believe there is no greater glory and the happiness, which will be his reward in the hereafter for his sacrifice for Japan, is greater than anything he could expect in this world.

It fits the legend we have heard for a generation that a bowl of rice a day and a chance to die for his country is the ideal of every Japanese.

The war, however, seems to have burst that bubble. It may be Japan's idea as represented by the military party but there are reasons to doubt if it is the ideal of the individual Jap.

On different fronts thousands of Japanese have surrendered rather than die on the battlefield as they have been taught is the greatest thing they can do. On other occasions they have retreated leaving equipment behind them.

NO CHOICE

In the case of the Jap of which the Australian soldier speaks it is more than likely he was making no voluntary sacrifice. It was more likely a case of being shot by his brother Japanese who drove him into the open, or by the enemy guns which he faced when he left cover.

The theory is supported by a conversation with a much-travelled Scotch engineer whose home is in Victoria when he is not travelling. Mac, years before this war, told of a talk he had with a Jap aboard one of the ships in which he sailed. Incidentally, besides being a marine engineer, Mac is an infantry veteran of the last war. He left the sea to join the army for a change.

As far as I can remember the conversation of 10 or 12 years ago, Mac asked the Jap why he had left his own country to go to sea on a foreign ship.

LIKED BEEFSTEAK BETTER

"I thought," said Mac in his blunt way, "all you Japanese ask for is a bowl of rice a day and the chance to serve in the Japanese army so you can die for your country and get a quick trip to the Japanese heaven."

"Been in Japanese army. Don't like it," said the Japanese tersely. "You been in Canadian army. You like army all time? Do you want to get killed?"

Mac assured the Jap that he didn't, but repeated that he understood a bowl of rice a day and a chance to die for Japan represented idealism to a Japanese.

"Rice!" The Jap said it in disgust. "Rice! You like rice all the time. I think no. Since I leave Japan I eat no rice. I eat rice in Japanese army all time because they serve rice all time. In Canada I eat beefsteak. Like it much better."

"Rice and water for Japanese soldier. Meat and whisky for Japanese officer. Don't like that. Don't like to die. Don't like army. Japanese officer say fine to eat rice. Fine to die. Japanese soldier think Japanese officer speak very much hokey."

FRIENDSHIP

The hospitality Victoria people have extended to English airman is appreciated by the visitors from across the Atlantic. In its first anniversary number the station magazine, the Patrician, says: "It is doubtful if there is a man in the camp who has not 'home from home' he can go to in the evenings and during time off and be as one of the family. We can only hope that those Canadians serving on the other side of the Atlantic are made as welcome. So thanks a lot to those who have so freely thrown open their homes to us."

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

Sergeants in the Canadian Army may be interested to know that sergeants to the South African Army are issued one bottle of whisky a week. This important item of news was made incidental in a dispatch from Cairo which told how Sgt. George Smythe, South African V.C. of the present war, has made a solemn pact with Gen. Dan Piennaar, commander of the South African Forces in the western desert, not to drink whisky for two years.

Congratulating Smythe on his decoration the general said everybody meeting the sergeant would want to entertain him. He added: "If you promise me you will not have a glass of whisky for two years I will make the same promise to you."

The Happy Gang program that comes over the air when most of us are at work put over one of the best of the week. A wealthy car-owner who resented his privileges being curtailed by gas rationing did a little black-market buying and secured three big drums of gasoline.

To escape detection he gave orders to his negro chauffeur.

"Dig a hole and bury that gasoline in the garden," he said.

"Did you dig that hole for the gasoline?" he asked the chauffeur next day.

"Sure boss," said the chauffeur. "Now what do I do with the empty drums?"

83 Prosecuted By Price Board

Enforcement administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board reports that, for the week of Sept. 28 to Oct. 3 inclusive, 83 prosecutions were instituted across Canada. Seventy-one were for alleged contraventions of the board's regulations and 12 were under gasoline rationing regulations of the oil controller, Department of Munitions and Supply.

A breakdown of the cases shows 24 persons prosecuted for violation of the ceiling prices as regards goods and services. There were three in Nova Scotia, seven in Quebec, seven in Ontario, one in Manitoba and six in Saskatchewan. Fines ranged from $5 to $400.

Thirty-one persons were prosecuted under the rental regulations: two in Nova Scotia, 11 in Quebec, 11 in Ontario, five in Manitoba, one in Saskatchewan and one in British Columbia. Fines ranged from $1 to $225.

Eleven persons were prosecuted for infringement of the ration regulations. Fines ranged from $25 to $250.

In Vancouver four persons in retail businesses were each fined $75 and costs for selling sugar without receiving the necessary ration coupons from the consumers.

In New Brunswick a retail grocer was fined $10 and costs for making more than one delivery over a particular route on the same day. A householder at London, Ont., and another in Toronto were fined $300 each for hoarding groceries.

At Lizard Lake, Sask., another $100 fine and costs was imposed on a householder for sugar hoarding.

Prosecutions instituted by the oil controller numbered 12, and fines ranged from $1 to $200. These infractions were: one in Nova Scotia, one in Prince Edward Island, two in Quebec, one in Ontario, one in Manitoba, four in Saskatchewan and two in Alberta.

Gas Rations Set For Whole of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Registration for gasoline rationing will begin Nov. 9 in all parts of the United States except the already-rationed east.

The Office of Price Administration, announcing this today, said that while car owners in the east need not reregister, they must, like the rest of the country, provide additional information concerning the tires they own.

In gearing gasoline rationing more closely to the tire conservation program, O.P.A. made these innovations in the plan now operated in the east:

1. Periodic tire inspections as to requirement for a renewal of rations, as well as any application for tires or recaps.
2. Certification that the applicant owns no more than five tires for any vehicle.
3. Revocation or reduction of rations for drivers who exceed the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Of electricity consumed in 1941, 76 per cent went to industry, 15 per cent to homes, and 9 per cent to service uses.

Island Rankers Become Officers

Three Vancouver Island soldiers who enlisted as privates in the Canadian Active Army and served overseas for many months were among a class of 22 young officers who qualified as lieutenants and were presented with certificates at the Canadian Infantry Training Centre at Calgary Saturday.

The three Island men, 2nd Lieuts. A. W. Gray and R. S. Marshall of Victoria, and J. Lundie of Victoria enlisted in the 1st C.S.R. here in September, 1939, and served overseas until being returned to Canada to attend the O.T.C. at Gordon Head.

Two other Victorians graduated at Calgary today, 2nd Lieuts. F. W. Goodman and R. F. Jeune.

Cloverdale P.T.A. Is Organized

A meeting was held Friday evening in the Cloverdale School for the purpose of organizing a parent-teacher association. Sixty parents attended.

Mrs. J. P. Leeming of Duncan, provincial organizer of the P.T.A. Federation, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith of the Monterey P.T.A. and Mrs. G. W. Pottinger, president of the Margaret Jenkins association and member of the provincial executive, gave talks on the aims and constitution of the P.T. movement in British Columbia. The speakers were introduced by John Gough, municipal inspector of schools.

The officers elected were: Hon.

president, G. S. Taylor, principal of Cloverdale School; president, H. J. M. Curry; vice-president, Mrs. Brown; recording secretary, Mrs. A. Geddes; treasurer, Jack McKenzie; publicity and program convener, Mrs. Eric Elwell.

The next meeting will be held at the school Oct. 28, at 8. The program will be announced later.

Continued connection of his irrigation system without payment of the service charge until he starts using water again next spring, was sought by F. N. Blankenbach, 1032 Verrinder Avenue, in a letter received at the City Hall today. He proposes the move as one of value under existing war conditions. Ordinarily, the writer explained, he disconnects his irrigation system at this time.

Hillside Wardens Arrange Lectures

"Are you prepared to protect your home?" This thought prompted the wardens of District 3, Hillside area, because of the many signs of unpreparedness during the recent blackout, to arrange for a special course of instruction given by experts dealing with all phases of precautionary measures to be taken before and during attack by the enemy.

All residents of the district are invited to avail themselves of this course, which is free, for their own protection and that of their homes. The lectures will begin at Quadra School at 8 on Monday, Oct. 26, and continue each Monday for a period of eight weeks. They will deal with such matters as organization, bombs, gas, first aid, fire, communication and the art of reporting incidents.

Though the consensus of opinion may be that there is only a hundred to one chance of an air attack here, even then it is necessary for all civilians to be prepared with the knowledge of how to protect their homes, since speed is absolutely necessary for the safety of all. It is hoped a large number will attend the lectures.

You've got a job, but...

YOU'VE GOT A JOB, SO HAS EVERYBODY ELSE. But what about after the war? You and everybody else will want a good job then.

Well, there is one way that you and everybody else can help to insure a good job after the war. That is for you and everybody else to save as much as you can out of your present earnings and buy Victory Bonds. Then you will have money to spend after the war for things that you can't buy now, or that you shouldn't be buying because they are not absolutely necessary. We refer to all luxury goods, and a host of other things that cannot honestly be called necessities in time of war.

Many firms that manufactured these goods in peacetime are now making munitions or other war supplies. After the war, the quicker they can switch back to making their peacetime goods, the sooner they will be able to carry on with peacetime employment.

So, you see that, quite apart from the patriotic appeal to save and Buy Victory Bonds, there are sound business reasons for doing so.

Authorize your employer to set aside a definite sum from each pay envelope to buy Victory Bonds. DO IT TODAY. The repayment of every dollar you invest in Victory Bonds, plus a fair rate of interest, is guaranteed by Canada.

Allies' Strength Grows, Nazis Wane

Churchill Discerns Fear In Nazi Leaders' Speeches

EDINBURGH (AP).—Following is the text, in part, of the speech Prime Minister Churchill delivered here Monday:

(The Prime Minister began by reviewing his own ties with Scotland, recalling that he had commanded a Scottish battalion in France in the first Great War and lauding the unity of purpose among Scots and then continued:)

Our enemies have been more talkative lately.

Ribbentrop, Goering and Hitler all have been making speeches which are of interest because they reveal with considerable frankness their state of mind. There is one note which rings through all these speeches. It can be quite clearly heard above their customary boastings and threats—a dull, low, whining note of fear.

They are all speeches of men conscious of their guilt.

How different from the tone of 1940, when France was struck down, when eastern Europe was subjugated, when western Europe was beaten down, when Mussolini hastened to stab us in the back, when Britain stood all alone as the sole champion in arms for the freedom and inheritance of mankind.

Something Happened In 2 Fateful Years

How different are these plaintive speeches and expostulations from what we used to hear in those days. Evidently something has happened in these two years to make these evil doers feel that aggression, war and bloodshed, and trampling down of the weak may not be after all the whole story.

There may be another side of the account. It is a long account, and it is becoming pretty clear that the day is coming when it will have to be settled. The most striking and curious part of Hitler's speech was his complaint that no one pays sufficient attention to his victories.

It strikes a chill into his marrow because in his heart he knows that with all his tremendous victories and vast conquests his fortunes have declined.

His prospects have darkened to an immeasurable degree in the last two years, while at the same time Britain, the United States, Russia and China have moved forward steadily onward from strength to strength.

He sees with amazement that our defeat are but stepping stones to victory, and all his victories stepping stones to ruin.

It is apparent to me that this bad man saw quite clearly the shadow of slowly and remorselessly approaching doom and he railed at fortune for mocking him with the glitter of fleeting success. It is but natural that the peaceful, unprepared and improvident should suffer terribly and the wicked, scheming aggressors should have their exultation.

It is only the first chapter. If the great and peaceful democracies could survive the first few years of the aggressors' attack another chapter had to be written.

It is to that chapter we shall come in due time.

History Will Praise Empire's Stand

It will ever be to the glory of these islands and this Empire that we stood alone for one whole year and gained time for the good cause to arm, to organize and slowly bring the conjoined, united, irresistible forces of outraged civilization to bear upon the criminals.

Fear is also the motive which inspires Hitler's latest outrages. From North Cape in Norway to the Spanish frontier at Bayonne, a distance, a part from indentations, of nearly 2,000 miles, German invading armies are holding down by brute force and terrorism the nations of western Europe.

Norway, Denmark, Belgium and France all are under Hitler's grip; all are seething with the spirit of revolt and revolution. Except in Denmark, whose turn will come, Nazi firing parties are busy every day hatred of the German race and name burns fiercer in the hearts of these ancient states and peoples.

British commando raids at different points along this enormous coast, although so far only a fore-runner of what is to come, inspire the authors of many crimes and miseries with lively anxiety.

His soldiers dwell among populations who would kill them with their hands if they got the chance and will kill them one at a time when they get the chance.

Calls Commandos 'Hand of Steel'

In addition, there comes out from the sea from time to time a hand of steel which plucks German sentries from their posts.

In his fear and spite Hitler turns upon prisoners of war who are in his camps and his power. Just as he takes innocent hostages from his prisons in Norway, Belgium and France to shoot them in hope of breaking the spirit of their countrymen, so in the flattest breach of the few conventions which still hold across the lines of the world war he vents his cruel fear and anger upon prisoners of war and casts them into chains.

I have always expected that this war would become worse in severity as the guilty Nazis feel the ring of doom remorselessly closing in upon them. Here in the west we have seen many savage bestial acts, but nothing that has happened in the west so far can compare with wholesale massacres, not only of soldiers but civilians and women and children, which have characterized Hitler's invasion of Russia.

In Russia and in his reigns of terror in Poland and Yugoslavia tens of thousands have been murdered in cold blood by the German army and the special police battalions and brigades which accompany it everywhere and take a leading part in frightful butcheries perpetrated behind the front.

For every one execution which Hitler has ordered in the west he has carried out at least 200—it may be more—in eastern and central Europe. In the first day after he entered Kiev he shot 54,000 persons. I say to show weakness of any kind to such a man is only to encourage further atrocities and you may be assured no weakness will be shown.

There is another reason apart from his perverted instincts why Hitler has begun large-scale maltreatment of British prisoners of war. He wishes to throw a new topic into the arena of world discussion and so divert men's eyes from the evident failure so far—I always say so far—of his second vast campaign against Russia.

The heroic defence of Stalingrad, the fact that the splendid Russian armies everywhere are intact, unbeaten, unbroken—may be counterattacking with amazing energy along the whole front from Leningrad to the Caucasus mountains; the fearful losses suffered by the German troops; the near approach of another Russian winter—all these grim facts which cannot be concealed cast their freezing shadow upon the German people, already wincing under the repeated and increasing impact of British bombing.

His soldiers dwell among populations who would kill them with their hands if they got the chance and will kill them one at a time when they get the chance.

German People Asking Questions

They turn a stony gaze upon the leader who brought all this upon them and dumbly—for they dare not speak aloud—they put the terrible question, "Why did you go there? Why did you invade Russia?"

Already Field Marshal Goering has made haste to point out this decision was Hitler's alone, that Hitler alone conducts the war and the generals of the German army are but those who carry out his orders.

Already Himmler, the police butcher, has been decorated, honored and prompted in token not only of the importance of his work in shooting and hanging thousands of Russian prisoners of war and torturing Poles, Czechoslovaks, Yugoslavs and Greeks, but of the increasing need for his devilish arts in the homeland of Germany itself.

Evidently in such a plight it would be natural for Hitler to raise a stir in some quarters and what could be more attractive to such a being than to mishandle captives who are powerless in his hands?

There are other matters which should cause Hitler and his guilty but somewhat ridiculous confederate Mussolini to ask themselves uncomfortable questions.

U-boat warfare still remains the greatest problem of the United Nations, but there is no reason whatever why it should not be solved by the prodigious measures of offence and defence and replacement on which Britain, Canada and, above all, the United States are now engaged.

The months of August and September have been, I will not say the best, but the least bad months since January. They have seen new building of merchant ships substantially outweigh losses. They have seen the greatest tonnage of British bombs dropped on Germany. They have covered the most numerous safe arrivals of United States troops in the British Isles. They marked a definite growth of Allied air superiority over Germany, Italy and Japan.

In these months, indeed, in September, far away in the Pacific the Australians with their American allies have made a good advance in New Guinea.

It is not my habit to encourage light or vain expectations, but these are solid and remarkable facts.

Steady Determination Declared Need Now

Surveying both sides of the account, good and bad, with equal composure and coolness, we must see that we have reached a stern and sombre moment in the war which calls in high degree for firmness of spirit and constancy of soul.

The excitement and emotion of those great days when we stood alone, undaunted against what seemed overwhelming odds, and singlehanded saved the future of the world are not present now. We are surrounded by governments and nations, all of us bound together in solemn, unbreakable alliance and all of us bound together by ties not only of honor but of self-preservation.

Deadly dangers still beset us. Weariness, complacency, discord or squabbles over petty matters will mar our prospects. We must all drive ourselves to the utmost limit of our strength.

We must preserve and refine our sense of proportion. We must strive to combine the virtues of wisdom and daring. We must move forward together, united and inexorable.

Thus, with God's blessing, the hopes which we are now justified in feeling will not fade or wither. The light is broadening on the track, and the light is brighter, too.

Theatre Packed For Lions Show

More than 1,200 soldiers, sailors, airmen and women of the C.W.A.C. and the W.A.A.F. thronged into the Royal Victoria Theatre, Sunday evening, laughing and applauding testimony to the fact that a peed had been filled by the Lions Club's two and a half hour concert for the services.

The show, a breezy variety production, was arranged by the Lions Club with financial backing from local firms to provide entertainment for servicemen and women who had nothing to do with the Sunday nights of their week-end leaves in town.

Flocking out of the theatre at 10.30 all had words of praise for the concert. For many it was their first chance since stationed near Victoria to get off the streets and enjoy their Sunday evenings.

Master of ceremonies was Staff Sgt. Roger "Curly" Preul-let.

Feature of the night was the R.C.A.F. band under the direction of Sgt. Joe Miceli.

The R.C.A.F. band were dance band wouns of applause. The servicemen appreciated the Highland dancing by the pupils of Miss Adeline Grant.

A good laugh helps a soldier, sailor or airman forget about duties for a few moments, and Miss Joy Merriman, with her ventriloquist dummy, Torchy, gave cause for plenty of that.

Comic versions of cakewalk era dancing also netted laughter when the young pupils of Miss Betti Clair cut up on the stage.

The Victoria Girls' Drill Team put the cap on the show and it needs no explaining why the men of three services appreciated their 10 minutes of marching.

The Lions will stage their next concert a week this Sunday with the same general line of entertainment. Lions president Robert Peers told the crowd:

"It's your show; we hope you like it and hope you continue to come."

Copper Wire goes to War

Vast quantities of copper wire are needed for the war effort of the United Nations. The wire goes into aeroplanes, ships, tanks, and innumerable other things. Copper is also required for many other purposes than wire. There is not enough copper to go around, and that is why the Government severely restricts the use of wire in the telephone business.

Manufacturers that might have made the switchboards and automatic equipment needed to meet the telephone demands in our territory are not permitted to do so because the materials, personnel and machines are needed to fill war orders. So we must get along largely with what we have.

These are reasons why many people who want telephone service are now unable to get it.

Naval Surgeon At Blood Bureau

Surgeon-Lieut. C. H. Moore, R.C.N.V.R., has, with the co-operation of Capt. F. G. Hart, R.C.N., been loaned to the Blood Transfusion Bureau, 817 Government Street, sponsored by the Junior W.A. to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, for the purpose of securing much-needed blood from donors.

This generous gesture has been prompted by the fact that an overwhelming number of doctors are serving with the armed forces and those on duty at the hospital are taxed to the limit of their capacities by ever increasing work. Lieut. Moore is an expert in this particular field, as already attested by the speed and comfort with which the operation has been performed on the numbers of donors received during the past week.

The bureau calls for 600 donors. The telephone number is B2414. This is an opportunity for everyone between the ages of 18 and 55, to be of service to his or her country and fellow citizens by donating one-half pint of blood. Those under 18 years of age must have written permission of one parent or guardian when making appointments.

Pound Party Wednesday At W.C.T.U. Home

In the year 1888 the Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union saw the need of a home for women and girls who needed care and protection. In the following year, 1889, such a home was opened on Cormorant Street, Victoria. A committee of members of the W.C.T.U. was appointed as a board of directors of whom the only one now living is Mrs. William Grant, who through all the years, has maintained a keen interest in the home. As the work grew the present building was erected on Ida Street, additional rooms being added later. Many girls and women have found this indeed a home at the time when it was most needed.

Once a year an appeal is made to the public in the form of a pound party, when friends are given an opportunity to inspect the home and see what is being done for this very worthwhile cause. The pound party will be held in the home, 2211 Ida Street, Wednesday afternoon, when donations of groceries, fruit, linen or cash will be accepted. Mrs. John Hart and Mrs. Herbert Ancomb will pour tea and it is hoped a large number of old and new friends will gather. Mrs. James Gray, provincial president, will attend.

A short business meeting of the board will be held previous to the party.

The speaker took for her theme: "Carry On, Canada," and pointed out how necessary it is for each one to carry on even the smallest task, as we are living in an epoch of history-making, and each action must be made to count, even as the most infinitesimal piece of mosaic can either make or mar the beauty of the finished piece by its presence or absence. A hearty vote of thanks was expressed to Dr. Anderson by Mrs. S. H. Elliott. Mrs. S. R. Richardson was thanked for her hospitality in entertaining the members of the Guild and Sewing Circle at her home during the holidays. Mrs. R. D. McCaw, senior advisor, thanked those who took part in the excellent program, and following the meeting refreshments were served.

Registration Shows Less Girl Power Than Expected

OTTAWA (CP)—Registration of women between 20 and 24 has shown that Canada's remaining labor resources are "considerably smaller" than the national registration of 1940 suggested, Mrs. Rex Eaton, assistant director of National Selective Service, said in a statement Friday night.

In areas where the scarcity of labor is greatest, interviews with available women will begin within the next few days, she said.

A statistical summary of the recent registration of women showed 58,635 married and single women in the age group are prepared to take full-time work and 23,380 are available for part-time work.

"We are hoping those 4,901 Canadian women in the 20 to 24 age group who admit having no responsibilities but are willing to work part-time 'only' will change their minds and take full-time jobs," Mrs. Eaton said.

258,583 LISTED

A total of 258,583 women registered, said the summary. Of these 117,894 were single women and 140,689 married. Women employed in insurable industries under the unemployment insurance commission were not required to register.

Those who were unwilling to change their present occupation or, if unemployed, to accept work numbered 176,468, almost 80 per cent of the total. This, Mrs. Eaton said, did not indicate that Canadian women are unwilling to work.

HAD an interesting visit last week from Walter Maguire, former secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., and now a resident of New Westminster. Having retired from "Y" activities Maguire now holds a position with the Royal City parks board and spends his time following up his hobby as an amateur naturalist. During the past summer Walter made a trip to the interior of the province, collecting live snakes, birds and other forms of wild life for the University of British Columbia.

Believe it or not, we spent over an hour chatting with Maguire on the habits and actions of the rattlesnake. We learned there are two species in this province, diamond-back and rock rattler. Maguire thinks nothing of catching these deadly fellows and even describes how he picks them up with his bare hands. "There is nothing to handling a rattlesnake once you know the tricks of the business," he said. When we inquired if he had ever experienced a narrow escape, Maguire replied: "Not once, and on one occasion I put my hand down on a rock within inches of a coiled rattler and he just slithered off into a hole in the rocks. Most people are ignorant of the fact that a snake will never strike a stationary object but only hit in motion. And then their only reason for such action is self-protection."

On his last trip Maguire considered himself most fortunate. He had been told a lot about the well-known blue racer but never had the good luck to meet up with one. A non-poisonous variety, this snake derives its name from its color and speed. Darn Luck smiled on Maguire as he came across only two racers and managed to capture them both. Maguire tells an interesting story about his capture of a large bull snake, another non-poisonous reptile. While traveling by car over one of the interior roads, with a lady passenger, Maguire spied a large bull snake slide off the road into the brush. Pulling up quickly he succeeded in getting a foot on the snake to halt its getaway until he could pick it up by the head. Throwing the specimen, one of the biggest he had seen, into a sack, the prize was tossed into the back of the car. "Although my passenger was not any too comfortable, she finally agreed to ride with our new company. But it was only a few minutes until the car was filled with such a stench we had to stop and get out for some fresh air. The bull snake had immediately exuded a milky substance through its scales that smelled worse than anything I could describe. Just another example of how nature has provided reptiles and animals with some form of protection." We agree with Maguire that snakes are an interesting subject, but still have no desire to meet up with any five or six-foot rattlers. We'll stick to the garden variety, thanks!

Three employees of a local department store, Ted Groon, Norm Manson and Ken Tyrell, have a Wednesday afternoon golf rivalry that produced an odd result the other afternoon. Proceeding out to the Uplands Club the three friendly rivals prepared for a real battle and, with the odd little side bet, each was counting on an addition to the bank roll. The first nine holes slipped by and on adding their scores were surprised to find they each had a 32. The second nine was completed and once again they added the cards and, after a check and double-check, came out all equal again with 49. All three had handicaps of 24, resulting in three net 75. All bets were a standoff and the boys figured it a lost afternoon's effort.

Louis to 'Retire'

Wants Fight After War

NEW YORK (AP)—About the only member of Joe Louis' official fistic family who wasn't denying Joe's statement of his retirement today was Joe, himself.

That, of course, didn't include Mrs. Joe, whose only statement when informed Joe had said his "fistic" days are over, was that "it's just as well."

But, in New York, promoter Mike Jacobs, who has put on every one of the Brown Bomber's fights since he hit the big time in 1935, and in Detroit John Roxborough, one of two managers who piloted him into the world heavyweight championship and through a career that ranks him among the greatest fighters of all time, both, insisted that Joe, in telephone conversations with them, had said he was "misinterpreted."

Meantime, the fight world was in quite a dither over Joe's retirement and what would come of it.

Billy Conn, who was to have met Joe Monday night in a return bout until the war department turned thumbs down on the fight and Conn's manager, Johnny Ray, both declared that as far as they were concerned "Joe is still the champ."

"I want to win the title," said the Pittsburgh pretty boy.

Roxborough, explaining that he had spoken with Joe at Fort Riley, said Joe explained he had meant that he was only retiring while he was in the army.

"Louis told me," Roxborough added, "that he wanted to defend the title once more after the war is over."

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Joe

Louis controversy — will he or won't he fight again? — has ended. Both sides are right.

Sgt. Joe, on his way from Fort Riley, Kas., to Los Angeles for a two-weeks' furlough, diplomatically voted both yes and no while waiting for his early-morning plane.

He hasn't exactly retired. Still he doubts if he ever does any more heavyweight title-defending. "When I said in Omaha I wasn't going to fight again," Joe explained, "I meant I'd probably never have another chance."

"This war is my business now. Say it lasts two years. I'm in for the duration and six months after. That's a long time to be out of training."

Then he figured he was through with the ring for keeps. "It depends," Joe replied. "Maybe the competition won't amount to much. And it depends on how I feel. You can't tell what kind of shape I'll be in when this war is over."

Joe, now 28, reiterated what he said in Omaha, that he would be pretty old for fighting when the war is finished. "Layoffs sure don't help none," he pointed out.

The three lads above have brought fame and publicity to Victoria for their feats in the athletic world. Now they are serving another cause in the colors of two countries. From left to right: Murray (Muzz) Patrick, member of the United States Army, home on leave; Doug Peden who recently enlisted in the 27th Ack Ack Regiment and Art Chapman, a member of the same unit. All three brought basketball fame to this city as members of Canadian champion squads—Blue Ribbons and Dominos. Patrick went on to a bright hockey career with New York Rangers while Peden established himself a top-notch six-day bicycle rider and the last two seasons as a pro baseballer. Although a veteran, Chapman enjoyed one of his greatest cage campaigns last season as the Dominos traveled east to lift the Dominion crown. The three are buddies and have enjoyed spending a few days together the last week.

Amateur Hockey Stymied

Faces Many Hurdles

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO (CP)—Amateur hockey moguls have been stymied by uncertainty this fall, wondering what player talent the call-to-arms has left them, what increases the National League, with ranks depleted by enlistments, will make upon the amateurs, and what service teams will be available for the established amateur leagues.

Conditions will be surveyed and plans laid shortly, however, at meetings of leagues and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association branches. Indications are most of the well-known leagues will operate although some places such as Vancouver and Edmonton are likely to be without organized hockey because the National Defence Department has taken over rinks.

Sqdn. Ldr. Lionel Conacher, R.C.A.F. sports director, clarified the situation somewhat in the west with announcement the army and air force will provide four teams in Alberta and another four in Saskatchewan. Decision of the Manitoba war services board to refuse 19-year-old players passports to enter United States apparently made certain

R.A.F. Win Soccer

Blank Navy 4 to 0

Featured by centre-forward Hall's hat-trick, R.A.F. footballers scored their second straight triumph in the local league Monday afternoon, at the expense of the Navy, 4 to 0. In their previous start the Flyers from Pat Bay nosed out the Army. It was the first appearance of the blue-jackets.

After gaining a 1 to 0 margin in the first half, as the result of a goal from a penalty, the R.A.F. took complete command of the play in the final 45 minutes to run through three additional counters.

Four goals were not a true indication of the play, as the Navy boys put on a lot of pressure in the late stages of the first half, but couldn't break through the R.A.F. defence. Adopting a kick and rush game the Navy upset the short-passing style of the airmen, but in the second period the sailors appeared to tire and were pushed back on the defence most of the time.

Large holiday crowd appreciated the match, especially the short passing attack of the English lads. In the second half the R.A.F. uncorked some pretty forward rushes with Hall and both the inside forwards and wingers displaying beautiful ball control and speed.

GOALIES SHINE

Work of the two goalies, Woodbridge for the R.A.F. and Stewardson for the Navy, was good. The latter had a real busy time in the final half, and, but for his work, the Navy would have suffered an even worse setback.

Play had only been in progress three minutes when the Navy had a penalty called against them for dangerous play by Hall, right back. Stewardson got a big hand when he picked off Boulter's high shot and cleared. Soon after, Naughton, Navy centre-half, suffered an injury and left the field to be replaced by Mathison. Cockrell's shot from a free kick just grazed the bar over the R.A.F. goal. Navy forced two corners as they kept up the pressure.

R.A.F. got their first goal when Hall was tripped by full-back March after he had broken in the clear. Hall made no mistake with a ground shot to the corner. Until half-time the Navy worked hard to equalize, but the interval found no change in the score.

With the opening of the second half it was a different story as the R.A.F. hemmed the Navy in their own half. After Stewardson had electrified the crowd with great saves from Hall, Potter and Huggins, the first named made it 2 to 0 when he split the Navy defence and drove the ball between Stewardson and the post. Park was carried off the field with an injured leg, but returned minutes later.

Hall completed the hat-trick, beating Stewardson with a rising shot from three feet out. Shortly after, right-winger Potter worked in close to give Stewardson no chance and make the count 4 to 0.

Although he did not figure in the scoring, Boulter made a number of grand openings for his other forwards, and was the driving force back of the R.A.F. offensive.

Joe Obee refereed.

TREVOR ROBERTS WINS

Finishing all square, Trevor Roberts won the men's par competition at the Victoria Golf Club. C. I. Mackenzie was runner-up with a score of 1 down.

Salmonbellies Come Back To Capture Third Battle

Whip Combines By Clear Edge; Tyler Sparks

TORONTO (CP)—There's an old sport maxim that only a game fish swims upstream. If that saying is correct, New Westminster Salmonbellies must be one of the harder piscatorial breeds, and you don't have to stress the play on words.

Salmonbellies proved their gameness Monday night before 3,263 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens, fans who came prepared to hail Mimico-Brampton Combines as Canada's new lacrosse champions. Combines had won the first two games 10 to 7 and 15 to 9 in such facile fashion that returning the Mann Cup to Ontario seemed just a case of going through the motions.

But Salmonbellies upset the dope. Playing back to the old tradition of famed New Westminster teams of the past—teams which have brought the cup donated by Sir Donald Mann of Toronto to New Westminster seven times in 12 attempts—they punched home the first goal after little more than a minute of play and went on to win 14 to 8.

Their passing was more effective, their shooting sharper and directly on the target. And in Pete Anthony, who replaced Bert Large in the Mimico-Brampton nets, they apparently found a softer obstacle than Large presented in the first two games. Their all-round performance was, in fact, so sharply improved that choosing a winner in the fourth game of the series Wednesday looked as difficult as it did before the finals started. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played Friday night.

OUTPLAY COMBINES

Bill (Tank) Tyler, a New Westminster replacement, created the spark for the victory by scoring the goal that put Salmonbellies ahead for the first time in the series. He sprinted half the length of the floor and beat Anthony cleanly. After that the west coast invaders—outscored and outplayed Combines in every period except the second.

From the scoring standpoint, the game's most intriguing angle was the duel waged by two great family combinations—Arch and Ken Dixon of Mimico-Brampton and Jim and John Douglas of New Westminster. Arch scored four goals, brother Ken had three and Flash McLean had one. John Douglas tallied three times, one more than Jim, his uncle, obtained.

Art Pruden, on the sick list during the first game, matched John Douglas with three goals. Clayton (Blackie) Black had two and the other New Westminster goals were split evenly by Tyler, Clifford (Kip) Routley, Marcus Smith and Ed Downey, with one apiece.

FIRST PERIOD

For the first time in the series, Salmonbellies drew first blood when Tyler, a replacement, eluded Anthony from close range. Routley made it 2 to 0 at 2:07 as Salmonbellies showed a new lease of life. Combines swept back on the next rush, Ken Dixon passing to Arch Dixon for the first Mimico-Brampton score. Seconds later John Douglas completed a dazzling pass play with Downey to make it 3 to 1 for Salmonbellies. Pruden made it 4 to 1 at 4:20 before Arch Dixon got the range again for Combines.

The teams were showing the best lacrosse of the series. Jim Douglas teamed up with Downey to make it 5 to 2 for Salmonbellies. Arch Dixon scored his third goal of the period for Combines and Black rounded out the scoring for the period of 12:55.

SECOND PERIOD

The pace slackened as the second period opened, and they played eight minutes without a score. McDonald was given a slashing penalty. He was joined in the box by Jim Douglas and Masters after the two figured in a brief flurry at centre. Madsen burst through the New Westminster defence for a clear shot at Scuby, but it was turned aside.

Jim Mullis went off for slashing and Black took advantage of the break, taking a pass from Wilkes to beat Anthony from 30 feet. Gimblett tested Scuby from five feet out. Madsen spilled

John Douglas at centre and was chased to the penalty box. Salmonbellies had a two-man edge in manpower, and they made it hot for Anthony.

Bryant and Arch Dixon engaged in a personal duel off to one side. Bryant and Wilkes drew penalties in quick succession. While they were off, Ken Dixon scored on a free throw, slicing the Salmonbelly margin to 7 to 4.

THIRD PERIOD

Salmonbellies opened the scoring at 2:22 of the third period when Pruden took a goal mouth pass from Smith and beat Anthony easily.

Bryant took a penalty and Combines popped in two quick goals. Ken Dixon got the first on one of his typical snap shots. Then McLean hit the New Westminster defence, fired as he fell and just caught the off corner behind Scuby.

John Douglas made it 9 to 6 for Salmonbellies at 6:20, winding up directly in front of Anthony after a three-man break-away. Bryant was credited with the assist. Pruden and Smith swept in on Anthony two abreast and Pruden's shot was labelled all the way. Askew was thumbed to the sidelines for slashing Ken Dixon. Arch Dixon knocked down Black and also was banished.

Smith broke away for Salmonbellies and scored five seconds before the period ended.

FOURTH PERIOD

Jim Douglas put Salmonbellies in front 12 to 6 at 2:12 of the fourth period, coasting in to pick up his own rebound and beat Anthony easily. Houston went off for slashing. McLean raced through the entire Salmonbellies team, but Arthurs couldn't get the range on his pass. Arch Dixon then went right in on Scuby for the seventh Combines goal, and Ken Dixon scored moments later to put Combines within striking distance at 12 to 8. He was right in again, but Scuby turned his shot aside. John Douglas relieved the pressure by beating Anthony from 20 feet.

Scuby cleared well down the floor and Downey picked up the bounding ball to make it 14 to 8.

Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON (CP)—You've got to hand it to a laddie such as Phil Milligan of Oldham, a bantamweight punch-tossing, who trains in the hours he manages to get away from his job as a gunner in the Royal Artillery. He has to walk 10 miles every day—five miles each way—to test his weight because he's stationed somewhere in England, and the nearest scales are five miles from his camp. After an absence of nearly 20 years Augie Ratner is appearing again in London rings. He's stationed in England with the American army. A famous middleweight in the years immediately after the last war he won the Allied Services' championship then at the Albert Hall. Referee for Ratner's initial appearance or reappearance to be more correct was Lieut. H. G. Stribling, brother of the late Young Stribling. The bout was a three-round exhibition with Freddie Mills, light-heavyweight champ.

Everybody knows how big a public favorite Gordon Richards, the champion jockey, has become. But few realize he is even more popular with his brother riders. They pay unstinted tribute to his sterling qualities, and like him for the quiet modesty with which he has worn the jockey's crown for so many years. Richards is not a stylist, but he has an exquisite sense of balance, grit and tremendous strength in his hands.

Racing folk who remember Fred Archer, the great saddle idol of the '80s, say it is unfair to contrast him with Richards. For one thing they belong to different generations, and the conditions of riding are different. For a jockey Archer was tall, 5 feet 8½ inches, with a figure emaciated by Turkish baths and starvation to keep down his weight. Richards, short and sturdy, has no weight worries.

Lemons are a thing of the past in Britain so football players just don't get a chance to suck them during half-time. The result is the local food committees in some spots have granted licenses to serve tea to players during the half-time interval. The license is necessary because of rationing restrictions. It took the war to bring about a mingling of amateurs and professionals in rugby football and rowing. Now "mixed" sculling has come about. Footballs are getting hard to come by. Swansea town couldn't find a ball for a match between the Welsh National side and the R.A.F., and the Football Association had to help Swansea out of its difficulty.

Punt at Adolf

Canada's outstanding athlete of 1940, LAC. "Tony" Golab, formerly of Windsor, Ont., starts his career as a fighter pilot of the Royal Canadian Air Force by aiming a lousy kick at Adolf. Holding the ball is LAC. Mike Klimentko, who with Golab was a member of last year's Ottawa Rough Riders football team, and who received his wings at the same time. Klimentko is a native of Cheswick, Penn., but will remain in the R.C.A.F.

Blackout Nickels Arrive

S. K. Campbell, right, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, shows one of the new nickels to the head accountant, J. C. Thow. The new coin is 12-sided and will work in pay-phones. It will operate pinball machines. Only the older model Wurlitzer will take the new lightweight nickel, the more recent juke boxes having proved incapable of operating with other than the large five-cent piece, due to the magnetic apparatus in the machine which does not react to the new alloy. Below are the two sides of the new nickel.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Stores—or any drugstore—and use as directed. This formula which is used internally, is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the result, your druggist will gladly return your money.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxide powder from your druggist, apply with a hot, wet cloth gently over the blackheads and you will wonder where they have gone.

New Trainer for King's Stable

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON (CP)—The King's

growing stable is to have a new trainer—six-foot Capt. Cecil Boyd-

Rochfort who comes of an Irish family distinguished for generations for its soldiers and horsemen.

His Majesty's racers now under the care of W. R. Jarvis at Egerton House, and also the royal yearlings to be put into training next spring, will be transferred early in 1943 to Boyd-Rochfort's stables at Newmarket.

Boyd-Rochfort, one of the leading British trainers for several years, trained for the American sportsman, Marshal Field, until Field recently disposed of his

British stock. Jarvis was appointed trainer to the Royal

Stables in 1924 and won the

1,000 Guineas for King George

V with Scuttlery in 1928.

Horses trained for the King

by Fred Darling, including Sun

Charlot, most outstanding filly in years, and two-year-old Tip-staff, will remain in Darling's charge at Beckhampton. One of the finest prospects in the stable is Sunblind, daughter of Hyperion who was the sire of Sun Charlot.

She may run in royal colors at next season's classics.

Speaking of Sun Charlot—and everybody over here is since she won all three classics she entered this season—she most likely will remain in training for another season and not be retired to the National Stud of Ireland from which she was leased for her racing career by the King. Opinion is that another season of running would not affect her as a brood mare.

The King's Big Game, also leased from the National Stud, probably will be sent to stud in England. After winning the

2,000 Guineas, the big colt failed dismissal in the Derby, finishing sixth in the greatest upset of the season.

Incidentally, the Derby winner,

Lord Derby's Watling Street who

Sun Charlot beat in the recent

St. Leger classic, also will go to stud. He has won $20,000 in stake money in a two-year career.

Approximately 20 of Lord

Derby's horses may be sold at the end of the season to make room for yearlings. The stable has had a good season and includes Garden Path, sister of Watling Street.

Before the war, America had half the world's rubber, one-third of its paved highways and 78 per cent of its motor vehicles.

B.C. Revenues May Drop Hart Tells Auto Group

Victoria and Vancouver businessmen today asked the B.C. government to reduce annual motor license fee to $10.

Premier John Hart, while promising serious consideration to the request, told the delegation the government is facing decreasing revenues, instancing specifically those from sale of liquor, which may be further curtailed by Ottawa order. He also said income from lumber is down. Increase to old age pensioners this year is taking more money from the government. There is more wear and tear on the roads, because of military use.

The Premier pointed out that last year B.C. municipalities received $370,000 from motor license fees, which amounted to nearly $3,000,000.

Cut to $10 would reduce the annual revenue from this source by more than half.

A brief, pointing out to the government reasons for the request, was presented by J. B. Leyland, former reeve of West Vancouver. The delegation was composed of the following:

From Victoria—John V. Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; W. T. Strath, K.C., M.L.A.; R. Knight, Canadian Legion; Geo. I. Warren, commissioner—Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; Frank Muller, chairman of the School Board; Reeve W. L. Woodhouse of Oak Bay; Art Christopher, Gyro Club; Sam Armstrong, W. P. D. Pemberton, T. J. Goodlake, Atwell D. King, Archie McLeod, Associated Commercial Travelers.

From Vancouver—B. Showler, president, Vancouver Trades and Labor Council; H. B. McKelvie, B.C. Automobile Association; Stan Collier, Vancouver Motor Dealers' Association; H. Frank Bird, secretary-manager, B.C. Automobile Association; Mort Ferguson, M. Leo Sweeney, Dave Thomson and Archie Cater.

HIGHEST TAXED CLASS
The brief, heard by Premier John Hart and his cabinet colleagues, said 33,000 persons in B.C. are asking for the reduction. It pointed out "the motor car owner is the highest taxed class of individual in our province—and the taxes levied against him—would seem to be out of proportion to taxes levied against any other class of taxpayer."

"The necessities of war have resulted in such restrictions in the use and value of a car, as to make the present heavy license fees unduly onerous—to such an extent it seems obvious many cars will be completely laid up unless some relief is provided—we suggest that through the laying-up of any substantial number of cars the actual war effort will suffer," the brief said.

The delegation gave as its considered opinion:

1. License fees in B.C. have in normal times been excessive, but notwithstanding, and without protest, the owners paid with a wish to co-operate with and encourage the government in the development of a system of good roads.

2. Encouragement to keep cars in good running order would be a wise and effective contribution to the war effort.

3. This petition is based on the principle of justice to the automobile owner who should not be penalized. Owing to the restrictions on tires and gasoline, the value of the use of the motor car has been reduced by at least 50 per cent; its use being limited to only business necessities.

The Premier and cabinet were told the request for reduction has the support of Vancouver Board of Trade, New Westminster Board of Trade, Vancouver Junior Board of Trade, Fraser Valley Associated Boards of Trade, Lower Mainland District Farmers' Institutes, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Vernon Board of Trade, Trades and Labor Council, P.C. Automobile Association, Victoria Automobile Club, Vancouver Tourist Association, Vancouver Motor Dealers' Association, Nanaimo Automobile Owners and Service Guild, United Commercial Travelers' Association of America, B.C. Provincial Command Canadian Legion, Kiwanis Club of Vancouver, Gyro Club of Vancouver, Vancouver Usuals' Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Mr. Leyland told the press, before he left the Parliament Buildings that the Automobile Association would continue to press for license fee reduction and that further petitions would be started so that increased public opinion could be brought to bear on the government.

TOWN TOPICS

Ward Four Saanich Liberal Association will meet tomorrow night at 8 in Marigold Hall, when urgent business will be dealt with.

Fifteen motorists were each fined $2.50 on parking convictions in police court today. One was fined $5 for failing to halt at a stop sign.

Alfred Edward Carter, Victoria boy who was graduated as bachelor of arts from the University of British Columbia, has just been awarded his master of arts degree in French language and literature at McGill University.

George A. Fester was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty in police court today on a charge of assaulting a Chinese, Lee Tow, at the Loyal Cafe, Flanagan Street, Sunday morning at 2.45.

Hubert de la P. Holliday was sentenced to 14 days by Magistrate Henry C. Hall today after pleading guilty to obtaining $7.50 by false pretences from H. W. R. Moore. Before sentence was passed he pleaded for leniency as he was working in the shipyards.

ENTHUSIASTIC
Speaking of his party's prospects in Canada, Mr. Nicholson said: "We're quite enthusiastic about the interest shown across the country. The recent by-election in Edmonton, when a C.C.F. man won, boosted our stock in that province. Our people feel we have an important part in the present crisis and in the days that will come after the war."

300 at Salmon Cannery Parley
Victor H. Elfendahl was returned as president and the full slate of officers and board of trustees re-elected at the 29th annual convention of the Association of Pacific Fisheries, which concluded its sessions here Monday.

The officers are: Lawrence Calvert, first vice-president; G. V. Graham, second vice-president; A. W. Wittig, third vice-president; G. B. Peterson, fourth vice-president, and Dr. E. D. Clark, secretary-treasurer. The board of trustees consists of: The president, chairman; Daniel Campbell, G. B. Peterson, G. W. Skinner, Lawrence Calvert, Harold S. Synesved, August Buschmann, C. A. Sutter, G. V. Graham, H. B. Friele, P. F. Harris, E. W. Thompson, C. J. Sebastian, Archie Shiels, G. P. Hallerty, L. T. Kreishelmer, Frank Lloyd, William Timson and A. W. Wittig. Harold Synesved and Archie Shiels succeeded R. R. Farish and E. B. Deming, both deceased.

Official welcome of the members of the Association of Pacific Fisheries was extended by Lieutenant Governor W. C. Woodward at the informal dinner held Monday evening at the Empress Hotel.

Toastmaster of the evening was Edward H. Bell, Seattle, northwest sales manager of the American Can Company, banquet hosts.

Apart from the welcoming remarks of His Honor, there were no speeches.

What the salmon canning industry is doing in the war effort by supplying food for the armed forces of the United Nations was the keynote of the convention discussions throughout Monday.

HUGE FRASER RUN
Debate on a subject of particular interest to Canada was the exceptionally heavy sockeye run in the Fraser River and the work of the International Salmon Fisheries Commission in studying and protecting the progress of the run, introduced in the report of Edward W. Allen, commission secretary. Al Hager, Vancouver, member of the commission, gave a more detailed description and analysis of conditions at Hall's Gate affecting the sockeye run.

This year the water stage at Hell's Gate on the Fraser River happened to be just right, resulting in a tremendous escapement to Adams Lake and the Shuswap areas.

The three salmon cannery bottlenecks, manpower, transportation and priorities, aroused considerable discussion. R. Bell-Young, Vancouver, dealt with the taking over of the entire salmon pack by the Canadian government.

Resolutions of condolence were passed incident to the passing of two former members, R. R. Farish of Seattle, and E. B. Deming of Bellingham. A similar resolution was passed in connection with the recent death of William C. Todd of Victoria, prominently identified with the industry.

Trophies were presented at Monday's dinner to winners of the association's annual golf tournament, played this year over the Colwood and Oak Bay courses.

Trophies and winners follow: Miller Freeman challenge cup, Fred Buhrman; Jack Horner cup, R. Bell-Young; Cress P. Hale memorial trophy, Chas Coffey; president's trophy, Maurice Rat-tay; first, second, third and fourth vice-president's trophies, Ray Anderson, M. M. Houck, A. L. Gile and E. O. Paup; secretary-treasurer's trophy, Thomas Sandoz and board of trustees trophy, Stan Streton.

The majority of the 300 members and guests in attendance at the convention left by today's boats for the mainland.

C.C.F. Treasurer Visiting City

A. M. Nicholson, M.P. for MacKenzie, Sask., and national treasurer of the C.C.F., is in Victoria today in the course of his first tour of western Canada.

"You have a beautiful city here—I don't know why I've never been here before," Mr. Nicholson said. He spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ken McAllister, 2919 Richmond Road, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Kjekstad, 820 St. Charles Street.

The prairie harvest is magnificent, Mr. Nicholson said, the largest in Canadian history, yielding 28 bushels to the acre, two bushels an acre less than the former record in 1915.

Prairie farmers, however, are having their troubles because of the labor shortage, but farm help is being supplied from Ontario and university students are also lending their aid.

Speaking of his party's prospects in Canada, Mr. Nicholson said: "We're quite enthusiastic about the interest shown across the country. The recent by-election in Edmonton, when a C.C.F. man won, boosted our stock in that province. Our people feel we have an important part in the present crisis and in the days that will come after the war."

Before he went into politics two years ago Mr. Nicholson was a United Church minister. After graduating from University of Saskatchewan and taking a post-graduate course at University of Edinburgh, he served the church at Hudson Bay Junction. A native of Ontario's Bruce County, he now makes his home in Canada, Sask.

Mr. Nicholson has been amazed at the number of Saskatchewan people now living in retirement in Victoria and Vancouver.

"In Vancouver the other night I asked the Saskatchewan people at a meeting to hold up their hands," he said. "More than half in that hall were from Saskatchewan."

Dismisses Charge Against Shasta Cafe
Magistrate Henry C. Hall today dismissed charges against the Shasta Cafe of selling clam chowder and coffee at prices higher than the highest prices charged during the basic period of Sept. 15 and Oct. 11, 1941.

One, obtained in April of this year, had tinned clam chowder marked at 15 cents. Another, obtained in May, had the prices marked at 20 cents.

Defence witness Mrs. Betty Ogston, a former employee of the Shasta, testified that the price of clam chowder had been raised to 20 cents in August of 1941 and—hazarded that the discrepancy between the two menus was an error on the part of the girl who was supposed to mark in the changed prices.

Charles H. Booth, Wartime Prices and Trade Board investigator, said he went into the cafe May 28 of this year and paid 10 cents for a cup of coffee. He said he talked to Ernest Alexander, manager of the cafe, who told him the change in price had been made two or three weeks before. Mr. Booth told the court he ordered Alexander to restore the price to 5 cents, but when he visited the cafe again on June 11 the price was still 10 cents.

The defence produced placards which, Mr. Alexander said, were printed by the local restaurant association, and which read: "Coffee alone 10 cents" and "No service less than 10 cents per person."

George R. Roberts, a taxi driver; George McGregor, J.P., president of the Victoria Tax Co. Ltd., and Mrs. Ogston all testified these placards were posted on the cafe walls during the summer of 1941. Mrs. Ogston said the 10-cent price for coffee came into effect at the same time the price of tinned clam chowder was raised from 15 cents to 20 cents. On question from the prosecution, Mr. Roberts and Mr. McGregor said they had coffee regularly in the Shasta and noticed the signs when the price was changed.

Mr. Cameron submitted that the difference in prices on the menus could be logical and reasonable mistakes made when the prices were being changed.

OBITUARY

William C. Todd Buried Today

Private funeral services for William Charles Todd were held today at the family residence, 936 St. Charles Street. Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick conducted the funeral services and cremation took place at Royal Oak Burial Park.

only actor in the cast who was able to divert attention to him-

YORK THEATRE

Seeing motion pictures is the quickest way to learn English.
At least it worked for Philip Dorn young Dutch actor, now playing a leading featured role in "Escape," Ethel Vance best-seller starring Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor, and now at the York Theatre. When he came to Hollywood 10 months ago, Dorn could not speak a word of English. He began his study of the language in a projection room with an English coach, seeing three to four pictures a day, or more than a hundred films a month. Within six months of this concentrated study and viewing pictures he was speaking perfect English.

RIO THEATRE

Although it is somewhat unusual for a ship to steal a picture away from the flesh-and-blood stars, that is precisely what happens in "Ships With Wings," the new air war thriller produced by Michael Balcon and slated for its showing at the Rio Theatre today through United Artists release.
The ship in question is Britain's aircraft carrier, H.M.S. Ark
Royal, and it displays a good deal of dramatic action in the film.
"Ships With Wings," also has a prominent cast of stellar players including John Clements, Leslie Banks, Jane Baxter and Ann Todd. The film was directed by Sergei Nolbandov and is based on a screen play written by Patrick
Kirwan, Diana Morgan, Austin
Melford and the director.

CADET-THEATRE

The amazing adventures which develop when sudden fortune descends upon a family of fun-loving, irresponsible part-Tahitians, is hilariously depicted in RKO Radio's sparkling comedy of the modern South Seas, "The Turtles of Tahiti," now at the Cadet Theatre. The action is played out against a romantic island background, with Charles Laughton in the star role.

Men Trapped By Flames as Tanker Sunk in Pacific

A WEST COAST PORT (CP) — Survivors from a Pacific coastwise tanker torpedoed and set afire by a Japanese submarine, described in detail how six men died in the attack and how they escaped from the burning, sinking ship.

The survivors, numbering 38, took to the boats, and were picked up some hours later by a lumber schooner which sailed into the danger zone and blazed its searchlights on the water to find the boats.

After the boats had been launched, the survivors said the Japanese sub fired a star shell into the sky, apparently in an attempt to sight any survivors. Capt. Olaf Breiland of Long Beach, Calif., skipper of the tanker, decided not to send up any distress signals in case he might draw enemy fire to the lifeboats.

Four of the men who died in the attack were from a navy gun crew. They were trapped in their compartment by raging flames after the first torpedo struck the tanker in the dark of the night.

PERFECT LAUNCHING—Mrs. J. Briggs, wife of a boilermaker's helper, christened Ss. Fort Tremblant, newest of Canada's growing fleet of steel freighters, which was sent afloat Sunday at a West Coast port. It was a typical workers' launching, the sponsor's name being drawn by lot.

Fierce Air Battle At Malta: 25 Axis Planes Destroyed

CAIRO (AP) — British planes, fighting off a terrific Axis aerial assault on the stronghold of Malta, Monday, shot down at least 25 Axis planes and damaged about 50, a joint headquarters R.A.F. communiqué said today.

The hard-fighting Malta airmen set a record for the destruction of Axis planes in one period of daylight, and marked up a two-day score of 39 planes destroyed in the aerial fighting which started over the tiny island, known as "the most bombed place in the world."

Many of the planes damaged were hit so badly they probably did not reach their base, the communiqué said. Five British fighters were lost in the fighting, but two of the pilots are safe.

In the past, violent and continuous air attacks on Malta have meant the Axis was attempting to move convoys across the Mediterranean to bolster Field Marshal Rommel's desert corps.

(The intense activity in the Mediterranean Monday indicated this again was the case.)

Small parties of enemy transport were reported dispersed Monday, and Sunday night R.A.F. bombers scored a direct hit on an Axis destroyer 50 miles north of Derna, the communiqué said.

Shortly before that action an Italian merchant ship, which was sinking, had been sighted near the same position.

The ship came here from the Middle East, and the officers were taking no chances on the vermin spreading disease. The ship was fumigated after arriving, but the lice and fleas apparently survived in some sections.

Air force authorities ordered the disembarkation after an R.C.A.F. medical officer condemned the ship and the men who marched back to barracks at 2 o'clock in the morning.

"We're ready to fight the Germans, but we don't have to fight fleas," the airmen said as they left the transport.

School Children Have Interest in Bomber
VANCOUVER (CP) — Christened Thunderbird by 13-year-old Roderick Pringle on behalf of British Columbia schoolchildren who have been investing their savings in war stamps and certificates, a PBY patrol bomber was ready today to join Allied air forces in their fight against the Axis.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Pringle of White Rock, B.C., Roderick named the Vancouver-built bomber Monday as authorities recognized the work being done by British Columbia schoolchildren in investing their dimes, nickels and pennies in war savings.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice S. E. Richards, Winnipeg, chairman of the commission which investigated conditions in west coast shipyards, is expected to arrive here tomorrow or Thursday to preside at labor-management-government conferences on implementation of the commission's report.

Chief recommendation of the report urged continuance of the seven-day week in the shipyards.

WEYBRIDGE, England (CP) — The death was announced today of Brig. Gen. F. A. Fortescue, 84, who took part in Lord Roberts' famous march from Kabul to the relief of Kandahar.

250 Divide $55,000 Under U.B.C. 'Co-op'

The 200 to 250 residents at Massett, Queen Charlotte Islands, half white and half Indians, got together in a co-operative clam-canning operation, which has netted them $55,000 for the season. The money was divided among them.

Prof. Gordon L. Shrum, director of the University of British Columbia extension department, speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria University Extension Association last night, told how the Massett co-operative was organized as part of the adult education work of the university. The university guided the Massett people in the raising of $3,000 with which the necessary plant for canning was financed.

"It is amazing what can be accomplished if you can get people to work together," said Dr. Shrum. "Up at Massett the clams would still be along the beaches and the people would be without the advantages which the $55,000 gives them, if it had not been for the lead taken to organize the settlers co-operatively."

"Organizing co-operatives in the outlying parts of British Columbia is a form of adult education. These people at Massett, through their practical experience in this clam co-operative, now know more about markets and the economic situation and they are thus better citizens—and isn't that what a university is trying to do?"

"Too many people think that co-operatives means getting up a grocery store and selling things to each other. It is much broader than that. We have been very much afraid of co-operative stores. It takes too much energy on the part of those who are attempting to organize them."

GROUP COURSES
Dr. Shrum told of other activities of the University Extension Department. He said that last year it had 70 to 80 study groups throughout B.C. doing work on child psychology. Now an extension course for groups on musical appreciation has been arranged under Dr. Halperin, with records being sent out from U.B.C.'s Carnegie Foundation collection. Coming out in January will be a course in art appreciation. Also coming will be a course on Canada's postwar economic policy.

"If we can put out the proper material in this postwar economic policy course, it will have a tremendous effect on whether we are to have inflation or not," said Dr. Shrum. "In a democracy you still have to sell a policy to the people."

"The value of these study groups is shown by the fact that one person reading or studying doesn't develop the same sound opinions as he would if he reached his conclusions through a group with others contributing."

OFFICERS ELECTED
Kenneth Drury was re-elected president of the Victoria branch with Vice-president J. L. Watson and Secretary-treasurer Mildred Barker. Committee elected was Major H. C. Holmes, Mrs. H. E. Young, Margaret Clay, J. S. Stott, J. A. Heritage, William Robbins, H. L. Smith, Dr. G. Clifford Carl and Charles K. Morison.

A course of seven lectures, one a month, will be given in Victoria during the 1942-43 season by the No. 1 lecturers brought from the university. First lecture will be next Monday in the Junior High School auditorium with Dr. G. G. Sedgwick of the Department of England, speaking on "Prerequisites of Reconstruction."

Usual Nazi Ideas On Allied Speeches
NEW YORK (AP) — A Berlin broadcast of a D.N.B. summary of German official reaction to the speeches Monday by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt said they aroused interest, "not so much because of what was stated in these speeches, but because of what had not been mentioned in them."

"German political circles," the broadcast said, "state in conclusion that neither Churchill's nor Roosevelt's speech was to be regarded as a new, important contribution to the political or military situation."

Between these assertions the broadcast was filled with far-fetched distortions of statements by the President and Prime Minister.

KABUL VETERAN DIES
WEYBRIDGE, England (CP) — The death was announced today of Brig. Gen. F. A. Fortescue, 84, who took part in Lord Roberts' famous march from Kabul to the relief of Kandahar.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks generally resumed the advance in today's early market dealings but a little selling came in after midday and halted the upswing for many leaders.

Volume for the day was in the vicinity of 850,000 shares. Well in front at intervals were American Telephone, Du Pont, North American, General Electric, N.Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Texas Company, Westinghouse and Montgomery Ward.

Among Canadian stocks C.P.R., Dome and McIntyre eased fractions while Hiram Walker gained 1/4. Occasional backsliders included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Santa Fe, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, Homestake Mining, Boeing, Sears Roebuck, American Smelting and Glenn Martin.

Preston dropped an early gain of 6 cents and losses of 2 to 5 cents were netted by Malartic, Gold Fields, Sylvanite and Sullivan. The close was slightly up for Lake Shore, Pickle Creek, McKenzie and Central Pacific.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trading at the noon close of the Vancouver exchange today was dull, with 5,500 shares changing hands. Golds, base metals and oils were steady compared with Saturday's close.

Pioneer Mine went up 1 cent at 96 and Sheep Creek remained at 55.

London Market
LONDON (AP) — Industrials were favored in a generally quiet stock market today.

Tobacco, textile and heavy industry shares had moderate support and closed firm. Home rails rallied at the finish. Oil also did well while Kaffirs lagged. Rubber and tea issues improved and tin and copper were steady.

Foreign Exchange
NEW YORK (AP) — Foreign exchange late rates:

Noranda Easier

MONTREAL (CP) — Pluses and minuses were both fairly well distributed up to the final hour today on the stock exchange.

Montreal Power edged up fractionally and Canada Northern Power was a loser.

Consolidated Smelters did better but Noranda was easier. Imperial was in arrears and Hollinger and Bulolo lost ground. Penmans ceded 2 and Gurd was fractionally harder.

Wheat
WINNIPEG (CP) — Routine mill demand for wheat in the December position featured pit trade on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Futures prices remained unchanged to 1/4 lower with October at 90 cents a bushel and December at 90 1/2.

It was reported export of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom was in excess of 400,000 bushels.

In the cash wheat market business was confined mostly to carlot shipments of oats and barley to eastern interests. There was some demand in higher grades but trading was quiet and prices mostly unchanged.

In the coarse grain pit, shippers and mills were buying oats in moderate quantity. Malsters and shippers supported barley and there was also American demand in the two commodities. Rye trade was local with scattered purchases. Spreads were about unchanged.

Price Problem In Newspaper Control
NEW YORK (CP) — Plans to control the production and use of paper have brought up an international problem of price control, it was reliably reported here today.

The problem involves the office of price administration in Washington, and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Ottawa, it was learned.

Paper men here said it chiefly involved newspaper, the chief product of the Canadian paper industry, which supplies three-quarters of that used by United States newspapers.

Recalling the news from the war production board in Washington last week predicting parallel orders curtailing paper production in Canada and the United States, they said manufacturers were insistent that partial shutdowns would increase costs.

Canadian newspaper administrator R. L. Weiden in Montreal declined to comment on any aspect of the Washington report of the plan to cut production in both countries, beyond indicating he might have something to say by the middle of this week.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Routine mill demand for wheat in the December position featured pit trade on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Futures prices remained unchanged to 1/4 lower with October at 90 cents a bushel and December at 90 1/2.

It was reported export of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom was in excess of 400,000 bushels.

In the cash wheat market business was confined mostly to carlot shipments of oats and barley to eastern interests. There was some demand in higher grades but trading was quiet and prices mostly unchanged.

In the coarse grain pit, shippers and mills were buying oats in moderate quantity. Malsters and shippers supported barley and there was also American demand in the two commodities. Rye trade was local with scattered purchases. Spreads were about unchanged.

The base metals recorded a modest index gain on the strength of Hudson Bay, Smelters, Sheritt and Normetal. The utilities and liquor closed slightly higher. Pacific and British Dominion were slightly weaker in western oils.

Price Problem In Newspaper Control
NEW YORK (CP) — Plans to control the production and use of paper have brought up an international problem of price control, it was reliably reported here today.

The problem involves the office of price administration in Washington, and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Ottawa, it was learned.

Paper men here said it chiefly involved newspaper, the chief product of the Canadian paper industry, which supplies three-quarters of that used by United States newspapers.

Recalling the news from the war production board in Washington last week predicting parallel orders curtailing paper production in Canada and the United States, they said manufacturers were insistent that partial shutdowns would increase costs.

Canadian newspaper administrator R. L. Weiden in Montreal declined to comment on any aspect of the Washington report of the plan to cut production in both countries, beyond indicating he might have something to say by the middle of this week.

Lining Up For 3 By-elections

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister King faces a test of his government's popularity in the three by-elections called for Nov. 30, two in Quebec and one in Manitoba, but Mr. King is not expected to enter the campaigns personally.

The elections are to be held in Winnipeg North Centre, which had been held since 1921 by the late James Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader; Charlevoix-Saguenay, left vacant by the appointment of former State Secretary Casgrain to the Quebec Superior Court bench, and in Montreal-Outremont, made vacant last week by appointment of Deputy Speaker Thomas Vren to the Senate.

Thus the government has an opportunity to increase its record-breaking House following, as well as retain two former Liberal ridings.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, new Minister of National War Services, is expected to be the government's candidate in Outremont.

Madame Pierre Casgrain is the announced Liberal candidate in Charlevoix-Saguenay as the successor to her husband, the first French-Canadian woman candidate for the House of Commons.

It is expected that Quebec seats will be contested by representatives of the new Quebec groups headed by Maxime Raymond, former Liberal M.P. for Beauharnois-Laprairie who recently announced he would lead a new party. But the Conservatives are not expected to contest Outremont if Gen. LaFleche runs there.

WINNIPEG CONTEST
In Winnipeg North Centre the candidates have not been officially announced, but the possibility is seen of both old-line parties seeking to win this seat from the C.C.F. now that the veteran leader and founder of that party has left the scene.

In the last general election Mr. Woodsworth won by a narrow margin with 11,324 votes to 11,199 for his Liberal opponent. The Conservative, running as a national government candidate, polled 5,412 votes.

Two other by-elections may be called shortly, one in Selkirk, Man., to fill the vacancy created by War Services Minister Thorson's appointment as president of the Exchequer Court, and another in Stanstead, Que., where the election of R. G. Davidson, Liberal, was nullified by the courts on a charge of infraction of the Elections Act. Stanstead had not been declared vacant when the House adjourned last Aug. 1.

Dorothy Dix:

Erring Husband Now Wants To Comfort Grieving Wife

Dear Miss Dix—I am a middle-aged man—a husband, a father and a grandfather. After a long and happy married life, for some reason I have never been able to explain to myself, I yielded to temptation and became unfaithful to my dear wife. I was soon so disgusted with myself that I broke off the affair, but my wife has found out about it and is simply killing herself with grief over it.

I have told her of my repentance and assured her that I will never commit such an offense again. I have done everything in my power to try to win her back again, but all, so far, without avail. We have a lovely home, fine children, plenty of money, everything to make us happy, yet we are the two most miserable people in the world. Why will men be such fools as to jeopardize so much for so little?

Can you say anything to my wife that will comfort her?

A DISTRESSED HUSBAND.
Answer: They who dance must pay the piper, and perhaps no other sinner gets such a short run for his money as the middle-aged man who takes a whirl away from the straight and narrow path. You never see a 50-year-old rounder who doesn't look worn and tired and bored to death, if he is a bachelor, and as though he wishes he were home again with his Maria, his pipe and his newspaper and his bedroom slippers, if he is a married man, instead of being at a nightclub trying to act young and peppy.

Among the most sorrowful of men are those who have traded off good old wives for streamlined new ones. Your wife may safely take it that you have been punished good and plenty for your side-stepping, and forgive you. So, without condoning your fault, for doubtless you have gotten no more than you deserve, I would like to say this for her comfort:

If, as it is said, misery loves company, it may be a salve to her pride, which is hurt just as much as her heart, to know that most of her women friends have been through the same experience she is undergoing. For there are not many husbands who have not at some time done a bit of philandering.

Sometimes the wives have found out about it. Sometimes they haven't. Sometimes the repentant husband has been foolish enough to tell his wife about it and thereby give her something to weep over the balance of her life. Sometimes he has had sense enough to keep silent. Sometimes it has led to divorce. Sometimes the wife has known her husband well enough to realize that the little escapade was just born of a sudden reaction against the monotony of domestic life and had nothing to do with his deep, abiding affection for her, and that, having tried the primrose path and found it full of thorns, he would be immune to its temptations ever after.

EARN HUSBAND'S GRATITUDE

Millions of wives have built their marriages on a firmer foundation by forgiving their husbands and forgetting their offenses against them. A wife who is big enough and sane enough to do that, earns her husband's respect and gratitude, and convinces him more than ever that she is the greatest woman in the world.

At any rate, the woman whose husband has had a little affair that he is tired of and repented of and who has come humbly back to her, does well to face the facts in the case. What is done, is done, and cannot be changed. She knows her husband still loves her despite his dereliction. They have had many years of happiness together. They have every memory in common. They have a family that will be disrupted if they part. They will create a scandal that gossips will roll under their tongues. They have a home they built up together.

What will she gain by divorcing her husband? Neither one will be happy apart. If she breaks up her home, will she like going to live with her in-laws who, she knows, won't want her? Or does she fancy becoming one of that miserable tribe of female tramps who wander from winter resort to summer resort and from hotel to hotel, with nothing to do, nothing to interest them, always homesick for what they have thrown away?

Doesn't common sense say that the wife in such a case is choosing the lesser of the two evils if she treats her husband like the bad boy he has been, spansks him, forgives him and kisses him and tells him not to do it again, and wipes her eyes and gets some new clothes and goes on being happy, as though nothing had happened?

Life of Sir James Barrie: Success in London

When James Barrie told his mother he wanted to go to London and set out as a writer, she grew fearful of his future.

"Many young men have tried that," she said, "and most of them have failed. You may starve if you go to London without having a regular job there."

and sewed on his shadow.

In Barrie's play, Peter Pan had a hard time hanging on to his shadow.

Loving his mother as he did, the young college graduate tried to make her see that London was not to be feared so much. He spent many hours telling her of the interesting places in London, and suggested that he might become a close friend of Lord Tennyson.

Mrs. Barrie could enter into the dreams of youth, but she was glad when her son decided to go to the city of Nottingham, instead of to London. At Nottingham he had an opening to join the staff of a newspaper.

For two years he lived in Nottingham, writing for the newspaper, and mailing articles to London papers. At last one of his articles was accepted by the London Illustrated News, and others were taken by a magazine printed in London.

Feeling that he was now on solid ground, Barrie traveled to London to be a writer in earnest. He had reached the age of 24.

London life proved exciting, but his path was far from easy. Without a regular job he found many a day when his purse was empty. The articles and stories from his pen were not always published, and there were moments when he wondered whether he had been wise to move to the big city.

As time went on, he met with better fortune. He made friends on magazines and newspapers, and a greater amount of his work was published.

Barrie's first novel had the odd name of "Better Dead." It was a small book, but he was very proud of it. For the first week he carried a copy in his coat pocket everywhere he went.

Not many copies of the book were sold. The author tells us of watching "a pretty girl" look at it in a book shop. She read a few pages and he was very hopeful that she would buy a copy, but at length she laid it down with a smile and walked away.

At the age of 31, Barrie met his first success with a novel. It was called "The Little Minister," and thousands of copies were sold. Later he turned it into a play. The stage was to be the place

OUR BOARDING HOUSE, with Major Hoople

Bringing Up Father

where Barrie would win his greatest fame. He was 44 when he produced a play which he at first planned to call "The Great White Father." He changed the name to "Peter Pan," and it became one of the most successful plays of history. It has been seen by millions of persons.

14-Piece Orchestra At Police Dance

A 14-piece orchestra under the direction of William Tickle will supply dance music at the annual ball of the Victoria Police Mutual Benefit Association at the Empress Hotel, Nov. 6. The dance will last from 9 until 3, and half the proceeds will be donated to charity.

Detective Henry Jarvis, secretary of the Mutual Benefit Association, is chairman of the ball, and Constable Stanley Holmes is treasurer. Chief of Police John A. McLellan is honorary chairman. Sgt. Harry Mercer is chairman of the decorations committee.

Police from many outside points, including Vancouver and Seattle, are expected to attend the dance. The theme this year, the close relationship of the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations, will be symbolized by a backdrop showing John Bull and Uncle Sam together.

Tickets may be secured by calling at or phoning police headquarters.
